New Orleans Integration Facing Test

NEW ORLEANS — A decision to integrate schools in the Archdiocese of New Orleans next fall is expected to get its first significant test during the week of April 8 when registration for the next term will be held.

One state legislator, a Catholic, has flatly predicted a "mass boycott" of Catholic schools and rumors of excommunication threats — officially unconfirmed — have made national headlines.

The accuracy of his prediction may be forecast during the registration period, when children now enrolled in Catholic schools are to indicate their intent to continue in such schools next year.

THE DECISION to desegregate was announced by Rev. Elmo L. Romagosa, director of the archdiocesan information bureau. The announcement said Archbishop Joseph F. Rummel of New Orleans had disclosed his intention to integrate the schools at a March 27 meeting with priests of the archdiocese.

The announcement did not refer specifically to desegregation. It said simply that the Archbishop had decided that "effective at the time of registration for the 1962-63 school session, all Catholic children may apply for admission to the Catholic schools of the archdiocese, both elementary and secondary, parochial and private, according to the accepted educational standards."

There are 10,851 Negro students in 30 Catholic schools in the New Orleans Archdiocese. Total Catholic school enrollment is 61,025 in 116 elementary schools and 14,682 in 37 high schools.

PROTESTS against the archdiocese's decision were not long in coming. Even before the decision was made public, a handful of pickets paraded in front of Archbishop Rummel's residence. They carried signs claiming that the Bible teaches segregation.

State Sen. E. W. Gravolet, chairman of a joint legislative committee on segregation, predicted the "mass boycott."

Gravolet also said the decision may bring a "severe reaction from a segregated-minded Legislature." He noted that parochial schools receive some state assistance in the form of textbooks, transportation, lunches and other fringe benefits.

THERE IS NO law obliging Orleans Parish (county) public school buses to carry Catholic school children. Instead, the buses pick up Catholic children if there is room for them, but they do not leave their public school routes to take them to or from school. Public school bus transportation is not integrated.

Emile A. Wagner of the Orleans Parish school board also hinted at possible legislative reprisals against the archdiocese. The next session of the Legislature is to open May 15.

Wagner referred to the possibility of legislation withdrawing the tax exemption granted to church property. He also said Catholics angry over the decision might stop contributing to church collections and might remove their children from Catholic schools.

LATER IN the week, Archbishop Rummel announced that he had sent Catholic segregationist leaders here a "personal and confidential letter" containing what he called

"a paternal admonition."

The archdiocesan Chancery Office declined to disclose contents of the letters or the names of those to whom they had been sent, but reports said they were directed to Catholics who appeared on the platform during a White Citizens Council rally March 30 protesting the integration announcement.

Mrs. B. J. Gaillot Jr., president of Save Our Nation, Inc., said she had received such a (Continued on Page 2)

Pontiff Will Send 'Pieta' to Fair

VATICAN CITY (NC) — The Pope has promised to send the Pieta, Michelangelo's statue of the Mother of Sorrows holding her dead son, to the 1964 New York World's Fair.

The marble statue will be displayed in the Holy See's pavilion at the fair along with one of the earliest examples of Christian art, a third-century statue of the Good Shepherd, which is also being lent by the Vatican.

POPE JOHN granted the unprecedented concession to Francis Cardinal Spellman in a private audience.

Movie Law Adopted

MONTCLAIR — By a 3-2 vote, the Board of Commissioners here adopted an ordinance banning the showing of "lewd, obscene or indecent" films.

The action came at a two-hour public hearing attended by some 600 residents on April 3. Some 60 persons spoke and an informal poll indicated that about two-thirds of those present favored the law.

THE LAW is in the form of an amendment to the municipal amusement code. That code contained a movie review section that was never enforced. The amendment provides that a citizen who believes a film is in violation of the new code may file a complaint.

Late last week the management of the Bellevue Theater here agreed not to plan any more showings of the controversial French film, "Les Liaisons Dangereuses."

The promise was made as action was taken to withdraw a complaint against the theater lodged by John E. Hughes. The complaint by Hughes led Montclair police to seize the film on Feb. 18 when the theater tried to reinstate it because of contractual obligations. The theater earlier had withdrawn the film at the request of Public Safety Director Angelo Fortunato.

Sunday Sales Law Before High Court

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Supreme Court has been asked to rule on the constitutionality of New Jersey's county-option law restricting Sunday sales.

Dave Fass of West New York, an Orthodox Jewish merchant convicted under the law, argues that it violates constitutional provisions regarding the establishment of religion, religious freedom and equal protection.

FASS WAS found guilty in West New York Municipal Court of having violated the law by selling carpeting in his store on Sunday, Nov. 29, 1959. He was fined $25.

He appealed to the Hudson County Court which upheld the conviction. He then carried his case to the New Jersey Supreme Court which also affirmed the conviction.

IN HIS PETITION asking the U. S. Supreme Court to rule on his case, Fass advances three arguments:

(1) The law "uses the state's coercive power to aid religion and invidiously discriminates against appellant's right to practice his religion."

(2) The classification of goods whose sale is forbidden on Sunday is "so illusory, arbitrary and capricious" that it violates due process and equal protection.

(3) The section of the law limiting the exemption granted to those who observe some other day of the week besides

Sunday as the sabbath is "invalid because of its vague and doubtful meaning."

THOUGH THE law exempts sabbatarians from prosecution for Sunday business activity, it nevertheless provides that the exemption "shall not be construed to allow any such person to openly expose to sale on Sunday" any goods or merchandise.

Fass argues that the meaning of the phrase "openly expose to sale" is so obscure that it renders the law unconstitutional. As an Orthodox Jew, he observes Saturday as the sabbath and closes his store on that day.

The New Jersey Sunday law, adopted in 1939, provides that it shall be operative only in those counties where the voters have approved it by referendum. Voters in 13 of 21 counties have done so.

LAST MAY and June, in a series of rulings and actions, the U. S. Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of Sunday laws in five states — Ohio, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, and Maryland.

The court made it clear at the time that it approves Sunday closing statutes as social measures designed to ensure a day of rest, not as religious statutes intended to protect the Christian day of worship.

New Jersey courts have held that the 1939 law is not a religious enactment.

China Exile

Jersey Visit By Cardinal

NEWARK — Thomas Cardinal Tien, S.V.D., exiled Archbishop of Peking, visited Archbishop Boland and Bishop McNulty April 3. The Cardinal will be in the U.S. until early June.

Now the Apostolic Administrator of Taipei (Formosa), Cardinal Tien arrived in the U.S. March 30 following his participation in the recent consistory at the Vatican. He officiated at groundbreaking rites for a new seminary in Bordentown, April 1.

CARDINAL TIEN urged American Catholics to "see to it that you get the truth about everything. Don't be satisfied with mere reports of events, whether they are in the United States, Formosa or China. Many situations are colored. Look to the Catholic press to give you the true color of each report."

May Disobey Unjust Laws, Bishop Says

COLOMBO, Ceylon (NC) — The Bishop of Kandy has reminded Catholics in troubled Ceylon they have a right to disobey "if the state refuses our just rights."

Bishop Leo Nanayakkara, O.S.B., spoke in one of the few Catholic schools not confiscated by Ceylon's leftist government in the east coast city of Batticaloa.

The Ceylonese-born Benedictine prelate said Catholic resistance to the seizure of their schools, which at one stage involved sit-in strikes in the schools, was based on the right to resist unjust acts of the state.

"ARE WE Catholics traitors to our country, are we second-class citizens for having chosen to run private schools and for having opposed the takeover of our schools?" Bishop Nanayakkara asked.

"While we are a minority community as Catholics, we are also human beings who have rights, duties and responsibilities. While it is sacred for Roman Catholics to give obedience to their father and mother, this cannot be blind obedience under all conditions . . .

"We have a right to stand up for things we believe in, and if the state refuses our just rights, we have a right to disobey. It is because of this that we opposed the takeover of schools."

Pope, Scottish Church Head Hold Historic Private Talk

VATICAN CITY — "With the simplicity of my heart I thank you for your visit."

That was how Pope John XXIII greeted the Rt. Rev. Archibald C. Craig, Moderator of the Church of Scotland, when the top Presbyterian leader responded to a precedent-shattering invitation to call on the head of the Roman Church.

Dr. Craig revealed in a Rome press conference later that his 45-minute meeting with Pope John on March 28 had been a cordial one. He said that at one point, the conversation "touched upon the matter of peace and, in this respect, Pope John declared that 'the peace of the world has two bases: truth and freedom'."

DR. CRAIG had come to Rome for the 100th anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church March 25. The trip followed a visit to the Holy Land. Last fall, after Dr. Craig had let it be known that he hoped to pay a courtesy call on the Pope, the question was submitted to a special body of the Church of Scotland's general assembly.

Despite opposition on the part of some Scottish Calvinists, the report was favorable, and the invitation to Dr. Craig to visit Pope John was issued through the Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity, one of the preparatory agencies for the ecumenical council.

FORMALITIES were dispensed with as the 80-year-old Pontiff smilingly welcomed Dr. Craig at the door of his private library and escorted him inside. They were closeted together for more than a half hour with Msgr. Igino Cardinal of the Vatican Secretariate of State acting as interpreter.

The Vatican Radio later reported that the audience had been a "very cordial" one. It said the conversation ranged over many subjects and the Pope recalled "episodes and memories of a spiritual order."

The leader of what is looked upon as the "Mother Church" of Presbyterianism in English-speaking countries disclosed that the Pope had explained the function of the College of Cardinals, remarking with a smile that he required advisers more than the Moderator because his job lasted until the end of his life.

ACCORDING TO the Vatican Radio, Pope John stressed his admiration for the "great gifts of religious piety and tenaciousness of the Scottish people, and their hard-working and intelligent disposition."

Dr. Craig and the Pope exchanged gifts at the end of the audience. Dr. Craig's companions were introduced to the Pope, who conversed with them for seven minutes and also gave them medals commemorating his pontificate.

DR. CRAIG MET afterwards with Augustin Cardinal Bea, president of the Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity set up in preparation for the Second Vatican Council.

At his press conference, Dr. Craig quoted Cardinal Bea as "happy over the fact that the inter-church atmosphere in the world is now more congenial. He said he had not discussed with the Cardinal the appointment (Continued on Page 2)

Processions Threatened

Polish Bishops Again Seek Probe of Red Interference

BERLIN (NC) — Poland's Bishops have repeated their request that the communist-controlled Polish Parliament—the Sejm—investigate illegal government measures against the Church, according to reports reaching here.

Church-state tensions increased in that Red-ruled nation when the Sejm passed a law restricting public meetings that seems likely to curtail traditional religious processions and pilgrimages. Reports added that the law was opposed in the Sejm only by the small number of Catholic members who are known as the Znaki group.

THE NEW LAW, reports said, requires persons organizing rallies, meetings, lectures, processions and pilgrimages to request permission to do so from state authorities and to show that they are "not directed against the social interest, security or public order."

According to reports, religious services held inside church buildings are among the exemptions included in the law, as are meetings of state or trade union organizations. But Catholic spokesmen have stated that the law could hamper discussion groups organized by the Church.

The Polish Bishops' renewed demand for a parliamentary investigation into government actions against the Church was made in a joint letter drawn up at a meeting on March 15, a few days after Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński, Primate of Poland, had returned from a visit to the Vatican.

THE EARLIER demand, made in November, was turned down in a letter from the speaker of the Sejm, Czeslaw Wycech, delivered to Cardinal Wyszyński only a few hours before he left for his Rome trip on Feb. 14. At that time observers here said this was done to forestall quick Church reaction to the refusal.

The hierarchy's new request reportedly expressed dissatisfaction with Wycech's February reply to Cardinal Wyszyński and deplored its unfriendly tone. The Bishops also asked for a meeting of the Church-state commission which has not met since last summer.

Cardinal Wyszyński's November petition gave the Sejm a detailed list of Church grievances. Included were:

- Government efforts to control catechism classes in churches.
- Discrimination against Sisters qualified to serve as nurses in government hospitals.
- Government refusal to hire qualified priests and religious as teachers in public schools.
- Official bans on traditional religious processions.
- Discrimination against Church institutions in regard to financial and tax matters by the Ministry of Finance and the State Office for Church Affairs.
- Refusal by the Interior Ministry to authorize the formation of Church-sponsored organizations.

12 Paterson Priests Volunteer for Bolivia

PATERSON — The Paterson Chancery office has announced that 12 priests, two of them pastors, have applied to Bishop McNulty for assignment to the Bolivian Mission of Caranavi.

Bishop McNulty will announce the names of the three priests chosen for the assignment on April 19 (Holy Thursday). Their departure will be sometime after ordinations in May.

THE PRIESTS will take a course of instructions at the school of the Society of St. James in Lima, Peru, conducted under the auspices of Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston. The course opens July 15.

The parish of Caranavi is in the Prelacy of Coroico, headed by Bishop Thomas F. Manning, O.F.M., who was formerly stationed at St. Bonaventure Monastery. Bishop McNulty has also announced that the Paterson Diocese will undertake the financial support of another Bolivian parish.

Council May Study Change in Mass

VATICAN CITY — Possible changes in the Mass were among a variety of liturgical and mission problems discussed by the fifth session of the Central Preparatory Commission of the ecumenical council, which ended this week.

Emphasizing its speculative and unofficial nature, a Vatican City dispatch from the NCWC News Service listed among the proposals for changes:

- Ending of the Mass at the "Ite, Missa Est" instead of after the Last Gospel, as at present.
- Reorganization of the Gospels and Epistles to give them greater significance in modern circumstances.

Should these or other changes actually be discussed at the ecumenical talks, they would be debated in the light of the possibility that Catholics of all levels could better participate in the Mass and understand its full significance.

IN CONNECTION with these reports, Vatican circles note that the press service of the preparatory commission called attention to the goal that the largest possible number of Catholics be able to assist at Mass more fully and devoutly.

The commission press service said of this goal that "it is indispensable that an instruction suitable to the capacity of intelligence and piety of individual Christians" be issued and that also useful is "a revision which, while leaving intact the actual Ordinary of the Mass, places in better light the nature and significance of the words, gestures and rites."

This press service bulletin, which cannot violate the seal of secrecy surrounding the Central Preparatory Commission's deliberations, also commented on the growth of modern liturgical movements that seek to restore the Church's liturgy to its earlier clarity and significance, as for example the changes in the Holy Week ceremonies authorized by Pope Pius XII and the reorganization of the liturgical calendar promulgated by Pope John XXIII.

THE PRESS service also noted that, "A more careful choice of Scriptural texts in the first part of the liturgy of the Mass, that of the Catechisms, which is essentially doctrinal and didactic, could help the faithful and unite them more intimately in celebrating the second part of the liturgy, that of the Eucharistic Sacrifice."

The liturgical problems were presented by Arcadio Cardinal Larraona, C.M.F., head of the council's Preparatory Commission for Sacred Liturgy.

They included the nature of the liturgy, the development of the liturgical movement, and liturgical books themselves.

AT LATER meetings, the commission discussed missionary problems. Gregorio Pietro XV Cardinal Agagianian, Prefect of the Sacred Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith and president of the Preparatory Commission for the Missions, outlined a number of proposals in this field.

The problem of promoting local vocations to the priesthood and religious orders was among the matters dealt with. Also discussed was the question of how best to unite the ideal of special formation within a religious order to the ideal of an intense apostolate among unbelievers.

ALSO DISCUSSED was the Christian formation of laymen in missionary lands and the development of the lay apostolate in those areas, the needs for special studies and courses in mission seminaries in regard to modern problems in mission lands, and the possibility of achieving greater cohesion among various auxiliary organizations which seek to underwrite or foster missionary work or vocations.

Before completing its missionary discussions, the commission returned to liturgical matters. Of particular interest in this respect was a study of ceremonies surrounding the administration of sacraments. The council bulletin made it clear that the commission did not discuss doctrinal aspects of the various sacraments, which had been already dealt with at the Council of Trent.

The Cardinal also outlined proposals regarding sacraments, the Divine Office and the liturgical year.

The Central Commission also considered three other parts of the Liturgical Commission's proposals.

Among the matters under discussion were sacred vestments and vessels, sacred music and sacred art. No definite details of the discussions were disclosed.

News From the United States

Catholic Board to Press Aid Appeal

PROVIDENCE, R. I. — The Providence diocesan school board will press its request for state school aid exclusively before a special state commission, withdrawing it from the State Board of Education.

Msgr. Arthur T. Geoghegan, diocesan superintendent of schools, said the request for state help in the purchase of science and mathematics textbooks and equipment and for testing materials for students will not be reinstated before the state board.

THUS THE decision will rest with the commission, appointed by Gov. John A. Notte Jr. and legislative leaders. That body began hearings here March 28 by interviewing a representative of the parochial school system.

The special commission was appointed as a result of the Catholic schools' request for state assistance. It is ordered, however, to study all phases of non-public school aid — thus its decision will not be one made solely on the merits of a parochial school bid for assistance.

Msgr. Geoghegan said that the request for help would not be reinstated before the State board would go directly to the General Assembly with a request for funds. "We feel that if the commission were to give a favorable decision, it would chiefly be a legislative problem," he said. "With their recommendation, it would be enough for us to proceed."

SEVERAL DAYS before his announcement, Msgr. Geoghegan testified before the seven-member, fact-finding committee. He explained the Catholic request, but asked that he be permitted to delay comment on the question of constitutionality and on specific provisions of legislation until lawyers for the Catholic board finished their deliberations.

In response to unofficial reports that the state would be asked to spend nearly $400,000 to aid the Catholic schools, he said that the maximum need would not be more than $250,000 a year.

Halt Sunday Sales

COLUMBIA S.C. (RNS) — South Carolina's General Assembly has passed a new Sunday closing law, the first in more than a century, with a long list of items that may or may not be sold on that day.

Designed to halt Sunday sales by discount houses, the measure will not affect a number of businesses, including "open air" food markets, drug and service stations.

Magazine Bill

ALBANY (RNS) — A bill banning the sale of "girlie" magazines to youths under 18 was passed by the State Senate here and sent to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. Previously it had been approved by the Assembly.

The measure makes it a misdemeanor to sell to youths publications exploiting sex. The bill was aimed at countering a Court of Appeals decision that only "hard core" pornography could be banned under existing law.

To Discuss Refugees

MIAMI (NC) — A program to foster resettlement opportunities for thousands of Cuban refugees in South Florida will be discussed at a meeting of priest-resettlement directors from 45 U.S. dioceses April 10 and 11 here.

Auxiliary Bishop Edward E. Swannstrom of New York, executive director of Catholic Relief Services — NCWC, will preside. Among the speakers will be Bishop Coleman F. Carroll of Miami.

According to Hugh McLoone, CRS — NCWC representative at the Miami center, although almost 14,000 refugees have already been resettled throughout the country by his office, some 67,000 Catholic exiles are still registered in Miami.

Bar Sunday Law

OKLAHOMA CITY (RNS) — An Oklahoma City ordinance banning the Sunday sale of a number of specified items "is not a valid enactment and cannot be upheld," a District Court ruled here.

It issued a permanent injunction prohibiting enforcement of the law, approved last year by the City Council. The court noted that similar Sunday laws in other Oklahoma communities have been ruled illegal in recent years by the State Court of Criminal Appeals.

Bus Campaign

FORT MADISON (NC) — A group of Catholic parents here launched a campaign to change an Iowa law so as to permit private and parochial school children to ride on public school buses.

Mrs. Val J. Doering, secretary of the Fort Madison chapter of the Citizens for Educational Freedom, said the group intended to write letters to parents of children in all parochial schools in the state asking support.

Textbook Stay

PORTLAND, Ore. (NC) — The Oregon Supreme Court stayed execution of its mandate in its ruling against loan of state textbooks to private school pupils.

The stay is for a period of at least 90 days and to be extended until final determination by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Oregon high court ruled that a state law providing for use of textbooks by parochial school children at state expense was unconstitutional. The court declined a petition for rehearing of its decision.

"Due to the fact that the letters were 'personal and confidential,' we prefer at this time not to disclose either the names of the persons to whom the letters were addressed or the contents of the letters, unless these parties themselves choose to make such a disclosure."

None of the recipients would immediately release a copy of the letter to the press.

Other Louisiana Dioceses Holding Off on Integration

An Advocate News Summary

Bishops of three dioceses neighboring New Orleans—where desegregation made news this week—have no immediate plans to integrate their parochial schools, but one of the three nevertheless said "It has to come."

Bishop Charles P. Greco of Alexandria, La., Bishop Robert E. Tracy of Baton Rouge and Bishop Maurice Schexnayder of Lafayette all issued statements this week which said, in effect, that integration in their parochial schools will not take place immediately.

Bishop Schexnayder said, however, that integration "has to come," and he is discussing the subject with diocesan officials.

IN THE Alexandria Diocese, which covers parts of northern and central Louisiana, Bishop Greco's statement was reported by Msgr. H.C. Teague, diocesan school superintendent.

"In regard to the question of Catholic schools, each Bishop legislates in his own diocese according to its needs, conditions and circumstances," the Bishop's statement noted.

"Due to particular circumstances, in central and northern Louisiana, we have no plan or timetable for desegregation in the Diocese of Alexandria."

THE BATON ROUGE Diocese was established last year by Pope John and includes some 150,000 Catholics. Bishop Tracy, the diocese's first ordinary, stressed that Catholics of Baton Rouge are committed to the same teaching on racial justice and charity as are Catholics everywhere else.

"Because the diocese is still in the early stages of organizing the various departments of its Christian life including its Catholic school system," Bishop Tracy said, "we have no plans or announcements at this time regarding the Catholic schools under our jurisdiction."

"However, it is important that every member of the new Baton Rouge Diocese clearly understands that, as a united Catholic family under God and His Church, we are committed to the same teaching on justice and love to all men, our brothers in Christ, as Catholics in any other part of the world."

declared in a pastoral letter that segregation was "morally wrong and sinful." But he has been forced to move slowly because of the opposition of some Catholic laymen.

However, he repeatedly made it clear that the parochial schools would be integrated at least at the same time the public schools were. Public school integration on a token scale has been accomplished, although its introduction was greeted with near-riots.

There are now 12 Negro pupils in six previously all-white schools. But one of the schools has only 15 white pupils attending classes with five Negroes. Before integration that school handled about 500 pupils.

CONTUMELY is the use of words or gestures toward our neighbor in order to bring him into contempt.

RELIEF CONTINUES — This group of Algerian youngsters, attending a school run by White Fathers outside the port city of Oran, are a small part of the 28,000 school children fed daily with U.S. government-donated surplus food distributed by Catholic Relief Services — NCWC.

Algerian Catholic Charities Continue Despite Violence

NEW YORK (NC) — Violence in Algeria has not slowed the program of Catholic Relief Services to help the needy there — mostly Moslems — with food and clothing.

This was reported by Catholic Relief Services-NCWC here. It added, however, that there is some fear distribution in remote areas will have to be reduced or stopped entirely.

CRS said that it is operating supplementary feeding programs for about 500,000 members of needy families, 12,500 persons in institutions and more than 28,000 school children. U. S. government surplus food is used.

Clothing given by Catholics during the 1961 Thanksgiving Clothing Collection arrived in Algeria last February, CRS said. The clothing is being given to needy persons in the hill country outside Algiers and in desert areas where the nights get very cold, it said. Additional supplies are on the way to Algeria.

More than 95% of the people aided are Moslems, the agency said.

THE RING of the Fisherman, a seal-ring with which the Pope is invested at his election, is used only for sealing papal briefs.

Algerians Hold Memorial Mass

ALGIERS (RNS) — Some 5,000 worshippers attended a special Requiem Mass in the Cathedral at Oran for those killed there and in Algiers during clashes between the French forces and the Secret Army Organizations seeking to prevent implementation of the cease-fire in Algeria.

The congregation was asked to remember also in its prayers "all those who have been the victims of terrorism in the past seven years."

Algerian Radio meanwhile broadcast a new appeal for peace by Archbishop Leon-Etienne Duval of Algiers.

The Archbishop recalled that only a few days before he had expressed the Church's sorrow over the tragic character of the trials the country had experienced. But, now, Archbishop Duval noted, new suffering in the wake of the recent cease-fire agreement had been caused by extremists opposed to Algerian independence.

Name U. S. Cardinals To Council Group

VATICAN CITY (NC)—Pope John XXIII has named Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston and Joseph Cardinal Ritter of St. Louis as members of the Central Preparatory Commission for the coming Second Vatican Ecumenical Council.

Prepare Selves In Spirit: Pope

ROME (RNS) — Pope John XXIII, preaching to an overflow congregation in the church of Santa Maria del Popolo here, strongly urged Christians to prepare themselves spiritually so that they can join more fully in the coming Easter festival.

He encouraged them to try especially to be able to forgive those who may have harmed them and thus restore peace to their own souls.

The Pope previously led a Lenten procession to the church from the church of Santa Maria del Monte Santo, where he paused before a stone tablet commemorating his ordination there Aug. 10, 1904.

Thousands of pilgrims from countries around the world hailed the 80-year-old Pontiff as he led the Lenten procession through a crowded city square.

Anglicans Invite Priest to Talk

TAMWORTH, England (NC) — A Catholic priest has accepted an invitation to give a Lenten talk at an Anglican church here.

Rev. Leslie McCallum will speak on "What is the Church?" Under arrangements he made with the Anglican vicar, the Rev. Alfred Jones, he will take no part in the service, remaining in the vestry until it is time to speak.

We've expanded!

GRAND OPENING TUESDAY APRIL 10th

Not the car. Us.

Here at Taylor Motor Sales, we're selling the same familiar Volkswagen. No wider. No longer. No lower. But we're selling it in brand-new expanded quarters. Bigger and better than ever. So maybe we see everything in broader dimensions these days.

With VW sales increasing every year, our business just outgrew the old place.

So we built a big new showroom at 250 West Passaic St., in Maywood.

Naturally, when the chief mechanic heard about this, he demanded equal rights (and got 'em).

There will be a total of 14 bays—7 lifts and lubrication stalls of the very latest model. A staff of 14 mechanics (factory trained by Volkswagen of course) are on the job. A reconditioning man, shop foreman, two service advisors and a service manager fill out our service staff.

It all adds up to better, faster service and delivery than we could offer before.

Used cars can be more quickly overhauled and renovated for resale.

More new VWs can be stored, displayed and sold. More of our customers' cars can be serviced (when the need arises) without delay.

Come in and see us soon, won't you. And if you're just looking, that's fine, too.

There's plenty of room in our new building. (And we love to show it off.)

THE ADVOCATE 3

New Japan Sect Seen Threat

TOKYO (NC) — Religious groups and politicians alike are alarmed at the growing popularity of an anti-Christian political movement, Sokagakkai, which grew out of a highly nationalistic sect of Buddhism.

Membership in Sokagakkai has expanded from about one million in 1959 to about 2.5 million today. It may command twice that many votes. Its military-type youth corps, its extreme nationalism coupled with hatred both of Christianity and of communism, plus the violence of its propaganda, have opened it to frequent comparison with the early Nazi party.

Alarm at the party's growing power has risen with the prospect of possible elections this summer.

Sokagakkai at present has nine seats in the Upper Chamber and hopes to gain six more.

Such an election victory would give the Sokagakkai status as a parliamentary party. At present the party's members are listed as "independents."

Latin American Roundup

Social Goals Outlined

MEXICO CITY — A five-point program for Latin America has been proposed by the Inter-American Confederation of Catholic Social Action (CIASC).

Recently given the task of promoting and coordinating Catholic social and economic efforts in the Americas by the Latin American Bishops' Council, the CIASC announced its program following a meeting with leaders of the Social Action Department of the American NCWC.

It calls for:

• The promotion and coordination of the hemispheric level of national organization of Catholic social action, the servicing of such organizations and the training of local and national leaders.

• Scientific research, study and evaluation of the various problems in the field of Catholic social action at both the national and inter-American levels.

• Regular exchange of information and experience by means of publications, and regional and inter-American social action congresses of both a general and specialized nature.

• The development of mass communications techniques for the dissemination of Catholic social teachings in the Americas.

• Development of close relationships with government and non-governmental organizations working in the field of social and economic reform at the national and inter-American levels.

The task given CIASC was formerly entrusted to the social action department of the Bishops' Council (CELAM). The change was made because of the department's lack of personnel. It came following consultations between CELAM, CIASC and the Pontifical Commission for Latin America at the Vatican.

Social Program

RIO DE JANEIRO (RNS)—A Christian Business Managers Association was formed here to put into practice Catholic social principles laid down in Pope John's encyclical, Mater et Magistra.

Patterned after a similar organization in Sao Paulo, the association will be affiliated with the International Union of Employers' Associations whose headquarters are in Belgium.

According to an official statement from the new group, the association will seek to "eliminate the outdated capitalist structure of business management regarding relations between workers and employers and apply principles of genuine Christian organization."

Argentine Peace

BUENOS AIRES (RNS) — Pope John XXIII told Antonio Cardinal Caggiano, of Buenos Aires that he was following events in Argentina with great interest and praying for a prompt return to peace and order there.

The Pontiff exhorted priests in Argentina to continue their work for moderation and peace.

Pope John's message to the Cardinal came after Dr. Jose Maria Guido, head of the Senate, had been sworn in as President in place of deposed President Arturo Frondizi.

A few days earlier, Pope John had sent a message to Cardinal Caggiano praising him for his work in helping to solve Argentina's labor troubles and to ease political strife there.

New Labor Group

ASUNCION, Paraguay (NC) — Plans for formation of a new Christian-oriented labor organization were made at a meeting of labor leaders of this South American nation. Existing unions are under the control of the government.

Ceylon Reverses Religious Ban

MADRAS, India (NC) — The Ceylonese government has reversed its plan to bar religious personnel as school teachers; it was reported here.

The ban, decided on in 1961, was lifted on the recommendation of Education Minister A. B. Mahmud. The policy, which had prevented the national education department from employing qualified religious as teachers, had been denounced by Bishop Ignatius Glennie, S.J., of Trincomalee.

St. Peter's Debaters Sweep Tournament

JERSEY CITY — St. Peter's College crack debating team warmed up for the national championships during Easter Week at West Point by sweeping all honors at a competition held March 31 at Pace College.

Pitted against 24 other colleges, the Peacocks took the team title and won the first three individual prizes with Brian Griffin, Thomas Collins and Michael Lisowsky.

Should Council Discuss 'Index'? Experts Suggest Some Changes

CHICAGO (NC) — What action should the coming ecumenical council take in regard to the Index of Forbidden Books?

Specialists in literature, law and theology grapple with that question in a magazine symposium and come up with suggestions ranging from re-stating the principles underlying the Index, through making it easier to get permission to read forbidden books, to dropping the list of titles entirely.

THE SYMPOSIUM appears in the April-May issue of the Critic, a Catholic literary magazine published here by the Thomas More Association.

The contributors include Rev. Harold C. Gardiner, S.J., literary editor of America magazine; Robert Giroux, editor in chief of Farrar, Straus and Cudahy publishers; Rev. Redmond A. Burke, C.S.V., director of libraries at DePaul University, Chicago; Judge Roger J. Kiley of the U. S. Court of Appeals; Msgr. Joseph C. Fenton, professor of dogmatic theology at the Catholic University of America; and Rev. Francis X. Canfield, president of the Catholic Library Association.

FATHER GARDINER notes that it is "by no means certain" that the Vatican Council, which opens October 11, will do anything at all about the index, which contains a list of books which Catholics are forbidden to read.

However, he adds, possible action by the council might include two steps:

• The listing of 4,000 titles in the present index might be "drastically reduced" to include only books which are now actually obtainable and hence represent a real danger to faith and morals. Such a "pruning" would leave between 400 and 500 titles, Father Gardiner estimates.

• The means by which one obtains permission to read a book on the index might be made simpler. One possibility, the Jesuit editor says, is that faculties to grant such

Bill Would Add Tax Exemption

WASHINGTON (NC) — Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr. of New Jersey introduced a bill to grant taxpayers income tax exemptions on expenses involved in obtaining a higher education.

The exemption under the bill (H.R. 10938) would be granted for education expenses of the taxpayer or his dependents. The bill was referred to the House Ways and Means Committee.

Rodino said his plan "permits a student the freedom to choose his own fields of interest as well as his own institution" and "should preserve the flow of students to both the public and the private colleges."

He said it would involve "no elaborate federal supervision, no chance of federal control, no issues of race or Church and state."

permission might be granted to confessors as a standard practice.

FATHER CANFIELD notes that today a Bishop cannot grant "across-the-board permission" to read forbidden books. "Perhaps the council will allow local ordinaries to grant general dispensations," he says.

Giroux centers his hopes on the relaxation of the ban on the reading of certain novels now listed on the index.

"Many novels have been condemned which gave scandal in their day," he says. "My hope is that some way will be found to reappraise these novels in the light of changing social conditions."

Father Burke points out that previous papal legislation left it up to the individual to decide whether or not to read books prior to 1600, in light of the general norms set down in canon law. He expresses the hope that the "beginning date" for a revised index

Advices on Work With Emigrants

NCWC News Service

Following is a translation of an address made Oct. 20, 1961, by Pope John XXIII to the members of the Supreme Council on Emigration.

Venerable brothers and dear sons: It is with great pleasure that we receive the representatives of the African Catholic hierarchy, those from the two Americas, Asia, Australia and Europe, coming to Rome to study and perfect the best methods for pastoral action among all emigrants and refugees, upon the initiative of the Sacred Consistorial Congregation.

Among those individuals, whose number is, alas! far too great, those are particularly dear to us who are suffering members of the Mystical Body of Christ, compelled by circumstances to look for better means of existence for themselves and their families outside of their native lands, and some compelled to flee their countries in order to protect the sacred patrimony of their ancestral Faith.

THE NOMADISM of peoples is a phenomenon which is constantly gaining in breadth, which presents some positive aspects for the individuals and for their families. The latter may find in their new framework of life a better situation and larger opportunities for human and family growth, while making a sure contribution to the countries which generously receive them.

But it occurs that the emigrant, uprooted from his soil and transplanted into a foreign country, finds himself in addition plunged into the atmosphere of the large industrial cities and thus often passes from a Catholic atmosphere into one impregnated with other religious concepts, if it is not totally indifferent to them.

THIS CHANGE may bring with it, despite the good reception generally received, the shipwreck of the emigrant's human and Christian dignity.

The pressure of new economic structures and of the change in life which results from them, may even go so far sometimes as to weaken the memory of the sacred attachments of the family and the distant homeland.

Such were the preoccupations which we voiced earlier in our encyclical "Ad Petri Cathedram." "It is a result of these conditions of life," we said at that time, "that many find themselves in a position which endangers their Faith and drift away little by little from the religious principles and traditions of their ancestors. Additionally it is true that couples are often separated, the children removed from the parents and the family bonds stretched to the detriment of the home" (A.A.S. 51, p. 527).

During this difficult period of adaptation, the Church, as a watchful mother, aids her children through missionaries — as they are called — whose knowledge of the language, way of thinking and needs of their compatriots permits receiving the homeless in a fatherly manner and enables them to support and above all to guide the first hesitating steps of those who have recently arrived, and little by little to integrate them, by means of activities in training, aid, welfare and recreation, into the religious and civil communities of the country which receives them.

BUT THE FIRST link in this chain of reception, as is natural, is the contact between the local clergy and the missionary — whether he be entrusted with the care of souls or not — under the vigilant and paternal direction of the Ordinaries.

In reality, there is no need for special material structures. The course was conducted by Mrs. Leo V. Norton at the guild's Center for the Blind here where three other courses in Braille are currently being held.

NEWARK — Msgr. Joseph A. Dooling, director of the Mt. Carmel Guild, has presented certificates of graduation to 11 persons who have successfully completed a 20-week course in Braille for transcribers.

The course was conducted by Mrs. Leo V. Norton at the guild's Center for the Blind here where three other courses in Braille are currently being held.

Race Issue Termed 'An Urgent Problem'

ATLANTA (RNS) — Most Rev. Paul J. Hallinan, installed as head of the new Archdiocese of Atlanta, termed the achievement of racial justice "an urgent problem."

"Teachings of the Church on racial justice must continue to be put into implementation," he declared at a press conference prior to his installation by Archbishop Egidio Vagnozzi, Apostolic Delegate in the U. S., at ceremonies here at the Cathedral of Christ the King.

ARCHBISHOP Hallinan, who was formerly Bishop of Charleston, also said he intended to encourage "in every way" the "new spirit given us by Pope John" for Christian unity.

Commenting on what he thought is the prime moral requirement today in America, he said that "most of all now the virtue of hope is needed." "We do a real injustice to our country, our civil officials, our courts and to state and municipal governments when we adopt an attitude of defeatism," he said.

"I believe in a vital Christian center, not in the political sense, but in the sense that religion should not remain just a theological property," he stressed. "It must affect life."

tures; it would suffice for each Ordinary to grant the missionary the power to exercise his ministry "plene et licite" (fully and lawfully) among his compatriots in a given church, and for him (the Ordinary) to set the limits of his mission.

Thus, such a priest would be at the head of a sort of "flying parish," well adapted to the conditions of those men in movement, even though it has a territorial parish as a point of departure. This is a pastoral experiment of which the future will decide whether it is proper to continue it, to perfect it or even to expand it.

THOSE WHO are responsible for emigrants and refugees will likewise not forget that the family remains an untouchable haven for the migrant, where he restores his energies, finds himself again and receives the strength for a new effort.

According to general opinion, it also represents his best chance for integration into the human community. Therefore, it is our ardent hope that religious and civil institutions will be able to favor the regrouping of family units, even at the price of heavy sacrifices, providing for them suitable lodgings and the means of educating their children by the opening of day nurseries and Catholic schools.

Let us add that, in view of the growing complexity of the problem of migration, it is highly desirable to see that fruitful cooperation is insured with all organizations which deal with emigrants, both apostolic and charitable groups.

FINALLY, let us not forget the 10th anniversary which is now quite close, of the papal document, Exsul Familia (on migration). This will be a favorable time to note what good effects have been obtained by that pontifical document in perfecting the actions which have proven most effective and in developing still further, thanks to the experience gained, your welfare work with the emigrants and refugees.

At a time like this, which presents so many sorrowful situations among various nations, and in which so many young nations have gained independence, is raising so many new problems, the organizations offering aid to the emigrants and refugees seem to bear witness to our contemporary of the continuing value of the Gospel and of the constantly present and charitable activity of the Church, Mater et Magistra (mother and teacher).

Such are the noble responsibilities which weigh upon your higher council that we were glad to receive today and upon which we invoke, in conclusion, an abundance of divine grace.

As a token of this celestial aid, and in testimony of the paternal benevolence with which we are following your work, we are pleased to grant you, venerable brothers and dear sons, as well as all those whom you represent here, a generous apostolic blessing.

Scholarship Increase Reported in Survey

CHICAGO — A survey which covered 135 American colleges and universities shows that scholarship is increasing among Catholic students, a Chicago priest-writer reports.

Rev. Andrew Greeley, who took part in the survey, said it shows that Catholics have no hesitation to go on to graduate work, and that more of them will do graduate work in the liberal arts field than will Protestant or Jewish students.

would have been correct in the past might change their opinions in view of the Chicago study.

Schools May Drop 1st Grade

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (NC)—The Catholic school board here has instructed parish schools to drop their first grade if enrollment is so high that other grades are overcrowded.

The eight-member board also ordered the dropping of kindergartens which are combined with other grades and do not have sufficient room or a separate teacher.

In its directive, approved by Archbishop Edward J. Hunkler of Kansas City in Kansas, the board said: "It will probably not be possible to meet future educational demands in every parish."

An archdiocesan spokesman said that schools which drop the first grade will assign that grade's teacher and its classroom to other grades.

Blacklist Korean, Leading Layman

SEOUL, Korea (NC) — Korea's leading Catholic layman, former Premier John Chang, is among the 4,187 politicians blacklisted by the Korean government which seized power last May.

THE STUDY, made by the National Opinion Research Center of the University of Chicago, covered June, 1961, college graduates.

Other findings of the survey, which Father Greeley reports in the Critic magazine:

• Some 33% of the Catholic graduates (as against 48% for Jewish and 28% for Protestant students) will go on to graduate work.

• Approximately 46% of the Catholics will do graduate work in liberal arts, compared with 43% of the Protestants and 39% of the Jews.

• One-third of the academic graduate students from Catholic colleges are going to study in the physical sciences. This, Father Greeley concludes, should end criticism that there is an irreconcilable conflict between American Catholicism and physical science.

Father Greeley said that critics of the Church's record in intellectual affairs who

Bergen Pair Head Pre-Cana Doctors

NEWARK — Dr. and Mrs. Donald Rock of River Edge have been named chairmen of the doctors committee for Pre-Cana conferences in the Newark Archdiocese. The appointment was announced this week by Rev. John A. Meyer, chairman of the Pre-Cana committee of the Family Life Apostolate.

Dr. and Mrs. Rock, parents of four children aged 8 months to 11 years, succeed Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Slowinski of West Orange.

Dr. Rock has given talks at Pre-Cana conferences during the past seven years and for more than three years was Bergen County chairman of the doctors committee. He has also teamed with Rev. Daniel

J. Collins of St. Peter's, River Edge, to give talks to parents on sex education of youth.

Dr. Rock regards Pre-Cana as "a form of education," and feels that Pre-Cana conferences help couples avoid "many of the marriage difficulties that arise in future years."

Vatican Council Lecture Topic

NEWARK—Msgr. Henry G. J. Beck, professor of Church history at Immaculate Conception Seminary, will lecture on the forthcoming Second Vatican Council on April 12 at Essex Catholic High School at 8:15 p.m.

He will speak under the auspices of the Pope Pius XII Institute of Social Education. The lecture is open to the public.

Mental Health Survey Reports On Catholics' Ills, Attitudes

NEW YORK (NC) — An eight-year psychiatric study of a midtown Manhattan area has disclosed that four out of five residents suffer from some degree of mental disturbance and that Catholics scored lowest and Jews highest in the mental health picture.

The study, involving a cross-section of an East-side residential neighborhood of 175,000 and identified as "mid-town" in the report, was conducted by a team of social psychiatrists under the direction of the late Dr. Thomas A.C. Rennie of Cornell University medical college.

SOCIAL SCIENTISTS interviewed 1,660 residents whose homes ranged from "gold coast" apartments to "congested slum tenements" in an almost "all-white" neighborhood.

Dr. Joseph D. Sullivan, a member of the executive committee of the Guild of Catholic Psychiatrists, described the authors of the report as a "very reliable group" and said he had no objection to their findings.

The study, which represents one of the most intensive metropolitan surveys ever made in the field of mental health, was one of the very few investigations attempting to focus on both the sick and the well, the treated and the untreated.

CATHOLICS WERE found to have the highest incidents of disabling mental disorders of the group surveyed. However, it was noted that Catholics in the area were generally in a poorer socio-economic position than either Protestants or Jews and were in age groups favorable to mental disturbance. When these factors were standardized in the report, Catholics and Protestants emerged quite similar in mental health composition.

The Jews, on the other hand, were more prone to experience mild or moderate mental disturbances, but scored much lower than Protestants and Catholics in disabling mental disorders.

Other conclusions reached in the religious portion of the survey included:

• There is a definite and positive relationship between the religiosity of the parents and the children's adult mental health in lower and middle class Protestant and Catholic homes.

• Protestants and Jews have twice as much religious mobility as Catholics. However, in all three groups; most of the movement has been into the ranks of the "unchurched" rather than into other religious bodies.

• Respondents of all three religious faiths who left one religious group for another scored higher in mental health than did those who deserted religious practice entirely.

• Jews are more likely to seek psychiatric treatment than Protestants or Catholics.

THE REPORT takes issue, however, with those who assert that the Catholic layman's resistance to psychoanalysis is "partially supported" by the Church.

"There is no question about the Church's unequivocal rejection of the anti-doctrinal aspects of the psychoanalytic literature," the report states.

"Overlooked, however, is the impressive movement of Church spokesmen toward explicit acceptance of Freud's scientific and therapeutic contributions."

European News Roundup:

Plan 228 Churches in Paris Area

PARIS (RNS) — Authorities have announced plans for 228 new Catholic churches in the Paris area to keep pace with the influx of population from the provinces and the present boom in new housing for industrial workers.

At present there are 120 churches in the central Paris area, or one for every 23,000 inhabitants. In the suburbs there are 239 churches, one for every 12,500.

However, the prodigious growth of the city's population has made new church construction urgently necessary. Present plans call for the rehousing of 2.5 million people by 1975, and most of these will be re-established in the new workers' towns springing up around the outskirts of the city.

CATHOLIC authorities are planning their program of new churches to fit into the "urban units" provided by the Ministry of Construction. These units comprise about 3,000 dwellings and necessary services.

Authorities hope to build at least one church for each of the urban units. Since the proportion of practicing Catholics is estimated at about 10%, the new churches would accommodate congregations of from 500 to 600 people.

There has been some difficulty in establishing sites for churches, but this is not regarded as a major problem. Among new ideas already tried out with success in the suburbs are chapels incorporated into the ground floor of apartment buildings or even in basements.

Raps Campaign

GRENOBLE, France (NC) — The Bishop of Grenoble has labeled a campaign to bring back the priest-worker movement "destructive, negative and divisive."

Bishop Andre-Jacques Fougere said in a public statement that the campaign sprang from no simple or spontaneous show of public sentiment but rather from a "methodical door-to-door" crusade.

The appeal, in the form of collective letters and joint petitions, called for restoration of the program under which priests sought to bring the unchurched masses back to the Church by taking full-time jobs in factories and workshops, and living the life of the workers.

The original experiment along these lines came to an end in 1954, on orders from the Holy See which held that the function of the priesthood is essentially spiritual.

No Draft for Girls

BONN, Germany (RNS) — A long controversy among religious leaders over the desirability and feasibility of legislating compulsory service for girls to help relieve an acute shortage of personnel in charitable and social welfare institutions ended here when the West German parliament dropped consideration of the plan.

Parliamentary leaders were generally agreed that the introduction of such compulsory service was impossible for constitutional reasons alone. They also stressed that the shortage of personnel should be overcome by making the "charitable professions" more attractive.

Several Protestant and Catholic officials and groups had endorsed in principle the introduction of a general conscription of girls for one year upon completion of school. They felt it was the only way to cope with the increasing labor shortage in welfare fields.

Limit New Priests

TONGERLOO, Belgium (NC) — No students were allowed to enroll in the one seminary still open in communist-ruled Lithuania in 1961, according to reports received here by the Aid to Eastern Priests organization.

Reports stated that there are only 30 theology students left at Kaunas seminary. Before the Soviet Union took over Lithuania after the war, that predominantly Catholic nation had 470 young men in four seminaries.

Until 1959, the communist government allowed the Kaunas seminary a maximum enrollment of 60. This has since been cut in half because Red authorities have restricted new enrollments. In 1960 they permitted only seven new students to enter, although there were more than 100 applications, reports said. No new entries were allowed in 1961.

Welsh Bible?

CARDIFF, Wales (NC) — Catholics and non-Catholics may cooperate in producing a first Bible in the modern Welsh language, it was learned here.

The Bishops of Wales have named two experts, Rev. Daniel J. Mullins and Rev. John Fitzgerald, O. Carm., to a general committee with non-Anglican Protestants and members of the (Anglican) Church of Wales to discuss chances of working together successfully in the first joint scriptural translation in Britain.

Archbishop John Murphy of Cardiff and Bishop John Petit of Mernevia have approved the plan "with reservations to accommodate Catholic and non-Catholic requirements." Among the problems involved is whether certain Books of the Old Testament accepted by Catholics but rejected by many non-Catholics should be included.

Catholics Gain

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (NC) — The Catholic people's party registered small gains in elections for the 11 provincial governments of the Netherlands.

The three Protestant parties held the percentages they obtained in the 1959 elections. The results from slightly more than six million votes show the Catholic People's party won 32%, compared with 31.6% in 1959.

Vacation Sacrifice

DUBLIN (RNS) — Fifteen hundred Irish students gave up their summer vacation last year to help spread the Catholic faith in London, a report here said.

The students were all members of the Legion of Mary. Five years ago, the young men and women organized the "Holiday Apostolate" and the first group of 11 went to London.

3rd Order Sets Racial Forum

NEW YORK — The federated provinces of the Third Order of St. Francis will sponsor a forum for action on interracial understanding at St. John's Hall here April 14 starting at 9 a.m.

The forum will consider interracial understanding in the Church, on the job, in education, in housing, in the community and as it pertains to Puerto Ricans. It will close with Benediction at 5 p.m.

Among the speakers and panel moderators will be Rev. John LaFarge, S.J., of America magazine; Rev. Felician Foy, O.F.M., of Paterson, and Lawrence W. Pierce, New York City Deputy Police Commissioner and president of the Catholic Interracial Council.

Rev. Roy Gasnick, O.F.M., will give the keynote address.

To Talk on Liturgy At St. Rose of Lima

SHORT HILLS — John B. Mannion, executive secretary of the Liturgical Conference in Washington, will speak April 8 at the third in a series of Lenten lectures being held at St. Rose of Lima School auditorium.

Mannion was a professional entertainer before becoming assistant director of television for the National Council of Catholic Men. He produced the Catholic Hour and other NCCM programs and subsequently became director of NCCM's department of development and training.

Cardinal Approves Transfer Of Priest for Bolivian Duty

ST. LOUIS — Joseph Cardinal Ritter of St. Louis has granted an "unprecedented" request to transfer a St. Louis diocesan priest for duties in Bolivia.

The Bishops of Bolivia had asked the Cardinal to allow Msgr. Andrew A. Kennedy to help set up a permanent secretariat of the hierarchy in the South American republic. Msgr. Kennedy recently returned to St. Louis after spending five years as a missionary in Bolivia.

THE ACTION is considered to be unprecedented because of the very nature of any national Bishops' Conference, where normally matters of the most delicate nature are discussed. Never before has a foreign-born priest been asked to such a delicate assignment.

The request was announced by Archbishop Abel Antezana y Rojas of LaPaz, president of the "Conferencia Episcopal de Bolivia." He said the Bolivian Bishops had been trying to set up a permanent secretariat for some time.

Church Welcomes Scientific Discoveries

NCWC News Service

Following is a translation of an address made at the Vatican on Oct. 28, 1961, by Pope John XXIII to the new president and members of the Pontifical Academy of Sciences. In his speech, the Pope stressed that the Church does not fear, but welcomes, new discoveries in science.

Gentlemen:

We are happy to receive today for the first time the new president and members of your illustrious and learned assembly. This day, which is the anniversary of our election, happens to be that of the episcopal consecration of Pius XI, the wise founder, or, to be more exact, the restorer of the academy which bears the title of Pontifical Academy. Our pleasure is all the greater as your ranks have recently been increased by other outstanding persons from many countries, who are recommended by their lofty merit and by the breadth of their scientific learning.

In response to our cordial invitation, you have been meeting for several days to hold a plenary session as well as a new study week on the structure of macromolecules, which are of biological interest.

Let us thank you sincerely for the eagerness with which, despite your manifold occupations, you answered this invitation, and express to you the pride felt by the Church in seeing such a select group of investigators meeting in Vatican City for the purpose of learned exchanges.

In fact, gentlemen, by the diversity of your origins and by the variety of your specialties, you constitute a reflection of the present-day world of learning and you bear witness to the complete agreement which has always existed between the Church and true science.

AS YOU KNOW, it is not because of a desire to remain true to the humanistic traditions inherited from the Renaissance that the Church receives you. It is because of a consciousness that by so doing, she is fulfilling part of her constant mission as mother and educator. Wherever she has established herself, she has always created a noteworthy enthusiasm for the development of intellectual culture.

Such was, indeed, the noble purpose pursued by our predecessor, Pius XI, when he founded, precisely a quarter of a century ago, the Pontifical Academy of Sciences. This purpose led him to include in the motu proprio (decree) of establishment the shining statement from the first Vatican council on the relationships between faith and reason, which it pleases Us to recall here:

"NOT ONLY can faith and reason never be in opposition to each other, but they render to each other reciprocal assistance." And the same Pope concluded from that:

"It is our ardent and firm hope that by this institution, which is both ours and theirs, the Pontifical Academicians may always contribute more and better to the progress of science. We are not asking anything else of them, for the service in favor of truth which we look for from them consists in this generous purpose and noble work" (Motu proprio In Multis Solacis, Oct. 28, 1936; A.A.S. 28, p. 421).

THIS EXPECTATION is also ours, you may be sure. You all know the importance which we attach personally to intellectual work and scientific investigation. It has always been close to our heart to use the leisure left to us by our divers functions in pastoral and historical research. It was therefore with joy that we greeted at the time of its creation this academy of yours.

In this perspective, we want to mention today the memory of its first president, Agostino Gemelli, who showed himself to be faithful to the admirable program laid out by your founder. His life brought honor to the Church and to science. It is also pleasant for us to appreciate for its just value the happy choice made by your illustrious society in conferring the gold medal of Pius XI on Prof. Robert Burns Woodward of Harvard University, whose scientific activity in the chemical field is full of success and of promise.

IN FACT, far from fearing the most daring discoveries of mankind, the Church believes, on the contrary, that any progress in the possession of truth brings forth a broadening of the human person and constitutes an advance toward the primary Truth as well as a glorification of the creative work of God.

Holy Scripture often reiterates these important thoughts, and without doubt, it often happens to you, gentlemen, that, in the enthusiasm of research and discovery, you allow the magnificent song recorded in the book of Daniel to sing within you: "Benedicite omnia opera Domini Domino (All ye works of the Lord, bless the Lord) (Dan 3, 57).

Following the three children of Israel, filled with admiration before the miracles of nature, how can we fail to call upon the angels, the stars and the elements, animals, plants, minerals, the most saintly men and those most heard by God, to interpret our feelings of praise to the Creator?

With the assurance that you are working with all your energy in this undertaking of knowledge and praise, we are glad to invoke upon your work and yourselves, as a token of our paternal good will, an unstinted effusion of divine blessings.

Fr. Kean to Address Amvets Breakfast

JERSEY CITY — Rev. Claude Kean, O.F.M., of St. Anthony's Monastery, Butler, will be principal speaker at the fourth annual communion breakfast of the Boyd-McGuinness Amvets Post April 15 following 8 a.m. Mass at St. Aloysius Church.

The breakfast will be held in the post rooms at 9 a.m. Other speakers will be Rev. Gerard P. Kelly of St. Aloysius, honorary post chaplain, Seamus O'Hanlon, and Dominic Strada, past national commander of Amvets. John Reilly is chairman. Eugene Diemer will be toastmaster.

Cardinal Supports Cronin Booklet

ST. LOUIS (RNS) — Joseph Cardinal Ritter of St. Louis has ordered copies of the booklet "Communism: Threat to Freedom," by Rev. John F. Cronin, S.S., sent to some 600 priests in his archdiocese.

Cardinal Ritter called the booklet "a very good presentation of the Communist danger we face."

Not Taking Political Sides, African Archbishop States

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (NC) — Archbishop Francis Markall, S.J., of Salisbury has denied an African nationalist charge that he was interfering in politics when he reminded Catholics in his Lenten pastoral letter of their duty to vote.

The accusation was made here by the Zimbabwe African People's Union. Deputy secretary Muzamela of the union said in a letter published in the Rhodesia Herald that by urging Catholics to vote, the Archbishop had "taken sides and come up on the side of those who have chosen to vote."

AFRICAN nationalist parties have called for a boycott of the April 27 elections, called by Prime Minister Sir Roy Welensky of the Central African Federation, to which this self-governing British territory belongs. The election was called to forestall implementation of a proposed new constitution which may give Africans a majority in the federation parliament. In the balloting, eligible white voters will outnumber Africans 10 to 1.

In reply to the nationalist charge, Archbishop Markall pointed out that he had issued his pastoral before Prime Minister Welensky called the April elections. Therefore, he said, it "could bear no direct reference whatever" to the elections.

He noted that his pastoral had called on Catholics "to take their full and proper part in the social, civil and political life of the country." He added that "there can be no valid objection to that."

University Announces Plans For Missionary Training

DAYTON, Ohio (NC) — A program to help prepare Catholics for work in mission fields will be initiated at the University of Dayton.

The plan, approved by Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati, includes a six-week summer program primarily for priests, Brothers and Sisters and a 10-month program for lay people.

The summer program, from June 25 to Aug. 4, will be conducted by members of the Society of Mary and representatives from Grailville Community College, Loveland, Ohio. The program will give six college credits in sociology or education.

ALTHOUGH THE summer session will be primarily for priests and religious, lay people with special reasons to participate will be admitted, university officials said.

The lay mission training program will begin in September. The program is being designed to attract as many interested people as possible, including working men and women as well as students. Therefore, sponsors are making plans for evening and Sunday afternoon sessions that will not interfere with the trainees' normal daytime pursuits.

Although emphasis will be placed on training for Marianist missions in Latin America, Africa and Asia, the program is intended to be useful for Catholic lay people intending to devote their energies in any foreign mission field.

Swahili, used in east and central areas of Africa, as well as Spanish will be taught in the program. There will be work in such fields as inter-cultural relations, mission spirituality, mental health, psychology, sociology, geography, history, catechetics, liturgy, and community service.

CCD Reception

MONTCLAIR — A reception for parents of children attending CCD classes in Immaculate Conception parish will be held in the grammar school on April 8 at 10 a.m. The reception will give parents an opportunity to meet the CCD teachers.

Liturgy Speakers Emphasize Need of Preparation for Mass

CONVENT—Preparation by the family for attendance at Sunday Mass was emphasized by two speakers at the Liturgical Study Day held March 31 at St. Elizabeth's College.

John B. Mannion, executive secretary of the National Liturgical Conference, and Rev. Leonard Cassell, O.S.B., associate professor of theology at St. Elizabeth's, both recommended preliminary reading of the Mass as a step to richer and more significant participation in the liturgy.

The conference, which was dedicated to the success of the ecumenical council, was also addressed by Rev. Francis J. Rodimer, director of Sacred Liturgy for the Paterson Diocese, and Rev. James O'Donnell, O.S.B., professor of Mariology at St. Mary's Abbey, Morristown.

FATHER RODIMER said the ecumenical council will restore to its proper place the teaching of the Church. "The theme of the council is to restore union of all things to Christ," he said. "Liturgy has the purpose, too, of uniting us with those who do not have as great a love of the liturgy."

Father O'Donnell noted that liturgy means something done for the benefit of the people. It is a public worship which Our Redeemer renders to the people and which they, in turn, render to God. Prayer is not a private thing. We act as a body, we add or detract from the body. Each individual must approach the Mystical Body to obtain the means to be restored (by the sacraments) to God.

Father Cassell stressed the need for active and intelligent participation in the proclamation of the Word of God at Mass. "The Word is addressed to you here and now assembled at the altar of God to offer Christ's sacrifice, gathered around the table of the Lord to partake of His Body and Blood," he said.

Charity Ball For Orphans

UNION CITY — The 1962 Catholic Orphans Charity Ball will be held April 28 at St. Augustine's auditorium for the benefit of Immaculate Conception Home, Lodi, and St. Joseph's Village, Rockledge.

The ball will be featured by entertainment to be provided through the cooperation of Horace McMahon, president of the Catholic Actors Guild of New York.

Plans for the ball were made March 28 at Benedict Council, K of C., in Cliffside Park by representatives of the sponsoring organizations: Msgr. Stafford General Assembly, the combined councils of the Knights of Columbus and the Catholic Daughters of America courts of the area.

Tertiaries to Meet

BOGOTA — The monthly meeting of the Third Order of Mt. Carmel of St. Joseph's Church will be held April 8 at 3 p.m. Rev. Andre Hertel, O. Carm., will conduct the services.

"In this sacred setting, the Word asks, in effect, 'Are you ready for sacrifice? Are you prepared for union with God?' It is a challenging Word demanding nothing less than a total giving of yourself. It is a redemptive summons to live today the very Christ-life which is about to be renewed in you in the Eucharistic sacrifice," he continued.

AMONG THE ways to achieve this end, Father Cassell suggested the reading of the Epistle and Gospel before Mass, daily reading of the New Testament, study of the whole Bible, formation of scripture study groups in parishes, and introduction of solid biblical courses into colleges.

Mannion said that the best method for an individual to follow in participation in Mass

Day of Recollection For Paterson Clergy

MORRISTOWN — A day of recollection for priests of the Paterson Diocese will be held April 11 at Loyola House of Retreats, starting at 10:30 a.m.

Rev. Harold F. X. Folser, S.J., of St. Peter's Prep, Jersey City, will give the day of recollection. Bishop McNulty will be in attendance.

Orthodox To Council?

ISTANBUL (NC)—The possibility of sending Orthodox observers to the coming Second Vatican Council has been examined by Catholic and Orthodox churchmen. It was reported by Orthodox sources here.

According to these sources, Msgr. Jan G. M. Willebrands, secretary of the council's Preparatory Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity, consulted Orthodox leaders in Istanbul and Athens on the subject of the coming council.

They said he first saw Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople, (Istanbul), who told him the question of observers must be submitted to a synod of the patriarchate before a decision could be made. According to Orthodox circles, no official invitation has been extended.

The sources said that Msgr. Willebrands, a Dutchman, also visited Archbishop Chrysostomos of Athens. The Greek Primate's reply in similar exploratory discussions was that of the Patriarch of Constantinople.

Thompson Aid Stand Hit

WASHINGTON (NC) — The national secretary of Citizens for Educational Freedom sharply criticized the position of a congressman who attacked CEF's school aid stand as "absurd."

Mrs. Martin Duggan of St. Louis was replying to remarks made by Rep. Frank Thompson of New Jersey in a radio interview.

Thompson, House manager of President Kennedy's unsuccessful federal aid to public schools bill, said he thought CEF's point of view is "absurd" and leads to dissension.

CEF, WHICH HAS its national headquarters in St. Louis, describes itself as a non-sectarian, non-partisan organization of parents of private and parochial school children interested in educational freedom. The group backs proposals that public grants be given to parents, who could then spend them at any school they chose.

"If parents had a tuition certificate, whether from local, state or federal education funds, that could be used freely at the school of their choice, it would rectify an injustice in our education which is the real cause of any dissension there might be," Mrs. Duggan said.

Taxes for Frills

Once upon a time, the people in this land were galvanized into action by a single sentence: "Taxation without representation is tyranny." Two hundred years later, while we have representation we still have a tyrannical taxation, dictated by the unthinking and the irresponsible. The will of the people is overlooked, and the desires of a small minority dictate the absurd expenditures undertaken by almost all government agencies. The Hoover Report gives abundant if ignored proof of this.

GOVERNMENTAL expenses and debts which necessitate taxation are increasing by staggering amounts. The taxes are occasioned by necessary spending at times, but only too frequently they are occasioned by the tyranny of some faddist, or some theorist. The vague theories of the latter must be financed by the hard-earned money of more practical breadwinners.

One reads of a $100,000 landscape item for an elementary school that might have been avoided with the foresight that discerns between the necessary and the frill. One reads of a magnificent highway system under water to be reconstructed at fantastic cost, when a little acumen on the part of the contracting agency might have prevented the costly error. Tales of classrooms with carpeting from wall to wall make it clear that a conscienceless taxation is being levied upon a harassed people, who must pay the full value of their homes every 10 years in taxation.

With no desire to arouse acrimonious comparison, the parochial school system can be regarded with pride. With an Archbishop, a superintendent of education and a body of sensible, vigilant pastors, both elementary and high schools are erected which are functionally satisfactory at a cost startlingly lower than that of non-parochial schools. Those erecting these parochial schools are concerned with what is necessary and vital for the education of the child. But they are further determined by ceaseless care and concern to spend their parishioners' money on the essential rather than on the expensive and frivolous accessory.

EVEN THOUGH the log cabin school has produced its share of great men, we cannot advocate a return to this primitive construction. But we do counsel a more rational approach to all government expenditure and particularly that for construction.

It is difficult to justify public buildings that vie with those of decadent Rome, or to accept as necessary school buildings that compete with the finest clubs in the land.

It is impossible to believe that the student must be given the same quintessence of luxury that surrounds the executive in his carpeted office or dazzles the Broadway first-nighter. The time has come for the taxed to refuse to pay for the whims of the few, of the pressure groups, of the vague theorists, who represent costly frills as essentials. We cannot have both in America out of the same tax dollar. We must choose between framework and frills. We cannot afford both.

Women Alcoholics

If "skid row" is where alcoholics live, your pleasant neighborhood may deserve the tragic title. Some women whom you know may be living the nightmarish life of an alcoholic, or be well on the way toward that dismal existence.

ONE MILLION American women, according to a reliable estimate, are sick with alcoholism — compulsive drinking. Many hide it. Their families, out of shame, disgust, pity, or false pride, hide it too.

The lady herself is usually the last to admit the problem. She lies to herself as well as to everybody else.

The worst part of this delusion and false pride is that the woman never comes face to face with her problem — an absolute must if it is to be successfully treated.

All that is sacred to woman — home, children, love of God — will be scrapped by the full-fledged alcoholic woman. "The drink" becomes her salvation and her damnation.

INTO THIS dark picture of chronically ill women comes a glorious ray of hope with the foundation of a hospital for alcoholic women, the first in the nation, as far as we know. Bishop McNulty, deeply sympathetic toward those sick with alcoholism, has founded this hospital in Paterson.

Magr. William Wall, given heart and soul to the rehabilitation of alcoholics, directs the hospital, completely distinct from the hospital for men which has been successfully functioning under his direction in Paterson for several years.

The new hospital with its team of priest, psychiatrist, nurses, and women A.A. sponsors, who visit the hospital every day of the week, has already begun treatment of 28 patients.

They are treated with the gentleness of Christ, and with dignity. This amazes some of them. The staff, however, realizes that those who come to the hospital are not derelicts. No more than 3% of women alcoholics fit into that category.

They are women with a problem that is primarily spiritual. The thousands of little resentments, fears, and reactions of jealousy and envy make life intolerable for them.

THE STRUGGLE toward sobriety is a long one. Recovery is progressive just as the disease is progressive. The picture, however, has its brighter side. People are gradually understanding the illness more and more. A spiritual problem requires a spiritual solution. Christ's desire to refresh all, weak and strong, with His very life in grace offers us encouragement and hope.

A.A. and Paterson's hospitals give us this added reassurance — the road back for alcoholics is not the lonely one it used to be.

A Voice for Those Who Pay

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg has found out what many a public speaker has come to realize: You can say a thing over and over without seeming to make any impression until, given a set of proper circumstances, the same statement brings on a controversy.

THE PRINCIPLE Mr. Goldberg has been promoting for the past year, and which only recently became a source of irritation to both labor and industry is: "The government must increasingly provide guidelines (in labor negotiations) to insure . . . the public interest."

The set of circumstances that made the statement controversial is the persistence of unemployment figures to remain high in some industries, the threat of more automation and the administration's "guideline" of a 3% a year over-all limit for wage-and-benefit boosts.

The reaction to Mr. Goldberg's remarks came first from AFL-CIO president George Meany: "He is infringing on the rights of free people and free society."

Industry chose an embarrassing alliance with labor when the National Association of Manufacturers stated its objection to what it called "more government intervention in the collective bargaining process."

HOWEVER, Mr. Goldberg has his supporters in both camps. Said David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers: "In the modern system of labor-management relations . . . one must recognize that the government, as the representative of all the people, must have an intense interest in the results."

Joseph L. Block, chairman of Inland Steel said: "In the process of collective bargaining, each side has to represent its own interests, but neither side must be unmindful of the needs of the nation. Who else can point out those needs but the government?"

TO THE AVERAGE consumer, often the victim of the collective bargaining process, Mr. Goldberg's words were a welcome ray of hope. At least somebody realizes that he, too, has rights which must be respected. Since he pays for increases in wages and higher prices, his representative at the bargaining table should do more at that table than just mediate a dispute.

He can recall that both Pope Leo XIII and Pope Pius XI insisted on a "just freedom of action," but stated that "this principle is only valid as long as the common good is secure and no injustice is entailed." This is the duty of the "civil power" (which is more than the mere guardian of law and order.)

What Will Be?

There's been a change in movie making. The hey-day of the Hays Office is over. For 22 years with appreciable success its Motion Picture Code eliminated objectionable themes from general family viewing, albeit with some prudish inconsistencies.

In 1952 a U. S. Supreme Court decision which concluded "that expression by means of motion pictures is included within the free speech guarantee of the First and Fourth Amendments" led to the decodification of the Hays code. In rapid succession adultery, brutality, carnal abuse, incest, sexual deviation and sacrilege became available at the neighborhood theater.

THE REACTION of the molders of public opinion has been interesting. One national weekly did a 10-page spread on the dilemma of the family facing the flood of "adults-only films." A prominent daily editorialized in favor of legislative aid to parents in meeting the crisis.

What for so many years has been labeled as thought control, censorship, and anti-intellectualism on the part of the Legion of Decency has now become highly favored by both weekly and daily. They call for classification of films according to their acceptability for various age groups. This is precisely what the Legion of Decency has been doing for years.

It is significant that of the 24 current titles cited in the 10-page spread, 14 serve to indicate the new trend. Of these one was listed as unobjectionable for everyone by the Legion of Decency. None were categorized as unobjectionable for adults and adolescents. Four were judged unobjectionable for adults. Four were morally objectionable in part for everyone. Three were separately classified, i.e., requiring some analysis and explanation for the uninformed to offset wrong interpretations and false conclusions. Two were condemned.

Six out of 14 may seem like pretty good odds. But this is just the beginning of the trend. Parents, you stand in even greater isolation. Your standards have been challenged further. Your role as teacher and consistent model has become even more imperative.

THIS CHANGE in movie-making is symptomatic of contemporary public morality. It seems to say morality is determined by what happens, not by what ought to happen. Here are sociological phenomena that exist. Let's parade them down Main Street for all to see — ready or not.

Youngsters may not be mature enough to apply the general principles of God's law to these complex human situations; but that is the parents' responsibility. (How over-simplified can one get?) We'll make laws to classify films, but no objecting parent would have to observe the law. No theater owner would have to advertise his films as acceptable or not. (What about worthwhile law being enforceable?) Que sera, sera?

Mary's Mind Turns To Solemn Thoughts

By FRANK J. SHEED

Naturally the shepherds talked of what had happened to them on the hillside. "All wondered," says St. Luke in a masterpiece of understatement. He goes on to tell us that Our Lady "pondered in her heart." Can we make even a guess at the direction of her thoughts?

At one level, she could hardly have helped asking herself why mountain shepherds — the lowest of the low in general opinion — had been chosen for an honor for which in all the Old Testament there was no precedent.

More profoundly, she must have noted that the angel had described her Son to them as "Christ the Lord"; that word "Lord," throughout the Old Testament, had been reserved for God. How could the Child she had borne be God? She had immensities to ponder about.

ON THE eighth day the Child was circumcised. The rite was probably performed by Joseph, since it was a father's privilege.

By the command God gave Abraham, every Jewish child must undergo circumcision. It is a rite not restricted to the Jews, practiced for all sorts of non-religious reasons by many peoples. But for the Jews its meaning was wholly religious: it was the consecration to God of man's greatest power in the physical order, the power by which he shares with God in the generation of new life.

ACCORDING to Jewish Law, two things still remained — the buying-back from God of the Child, and the Purification of the Mother. Because of the Child's divinity and the Mother's virginity, neither obligation had any meaning for them, but Mary and Joseph decided to observe them. They could not have avoided doing so, without a mass of explanations which at that moment they were hardly in a position to give.

Since the day when the first-born of Egypt were slain to force upon Pharaoh the liberation of God's people (Exodus II, 12-16), all the first-born of Israel were made by God His own property, consecrated to Him. Every first-born son must be bought back! It seems that what Joseph had to pay for the ransoming of Jesus would have been roughly the equivalent of two weeks of his earnings as a carpenter.

BY THE LAW of Moses, every mother of a son must for 40 days remain in her own house, avoid contact with sacred things, and not enter the sanctuary. On the 40th day she must offer for sacrifice a lamb and a young pigeon; but if the family was too poor for a lamb, then they might offer two pigeons.

It was not strictly necessary to go to the Temple for these things. But people as close to Jerusalem as these two were would have made a point of going to the Temple, and these two did. What interests us in their visit was the reaction of Anna, who realized that their Child was to be the Redeemer of Israel, and still more of Simeon, who took the Child in his arms and uttered words which set them both "wondering."

He had come to the Temple that day, as Christ Our Lord would one day go to the desert, "led by the Holy Spirit" — the same Holy Spirit Who had revealed to him that he should not die until he had seen the Christ. If you have not recently read the words which set Mary and Joseph wondering, do read them now — Luke II, 29-36. We shall look closely at them next week.

Some Lessons Out of Geneva

By LOUIS F. BUDENZ

We have been hit badly enough by the Red propaganda out of Geneva to decide among ourselves once and for all.

First, that we Americans must introduce on a much more widespread scale a system of education on communism based on a critical analysis of the communist documents themselves. Too much of what passes for "education" or agitation on communism is based on a form of hearsay and does not take into consideration the directive organs of living communism.

Second, we will have to come to the acknowledgement that there must be in our stand some of that balance which appears in the papal encyclicals. It is out of this balance that we combat communism as "intrinsically evil" — which was not done at Geneva — and its line as "diabolical." We also forward the wider distribution of wealth represented today by profit-sharing and "workers' ownership."

UNLESS WE do that, Geneva has taught us, we will be confronted with that loss of "one position after another" which Khrushchev boasts has been our fate in his opening address to the 22nd Congress of the Soviet Communist Party.

Unless we do this, we will also be smashed in the manner that Khrushchev predicted in his March 5 speech on Soviet agriculture. There he declared that "capitalist and colonial oppression" will be completely wiped out. Our general press did not report these ominous words, but they appear in a lengthy reproduction of the Soviet leader's speech in the Moscow News of March 10.

WHY, AFTER ALL, were we led to go to Geneva? We must admit it was due largely to the portrait of Nikita Khrushchev in our general press.

So pronounced had become this chorus proclaiming Khrushchev to be "our man" that on March 25 the commentator Roscoe Drummond had to raise questions as to whether this characterization were true. Drummond came to the conclusion that Khrushchev was no better for the West than Stalin, but he did this on a purely pragmatic basis.

I must quote at some length what Leonid Ilyichov, secretary of the Soviet Central Committee, said on this question to the 2,700 "new men" who were gathered in Moscow in December to spread education for communism.

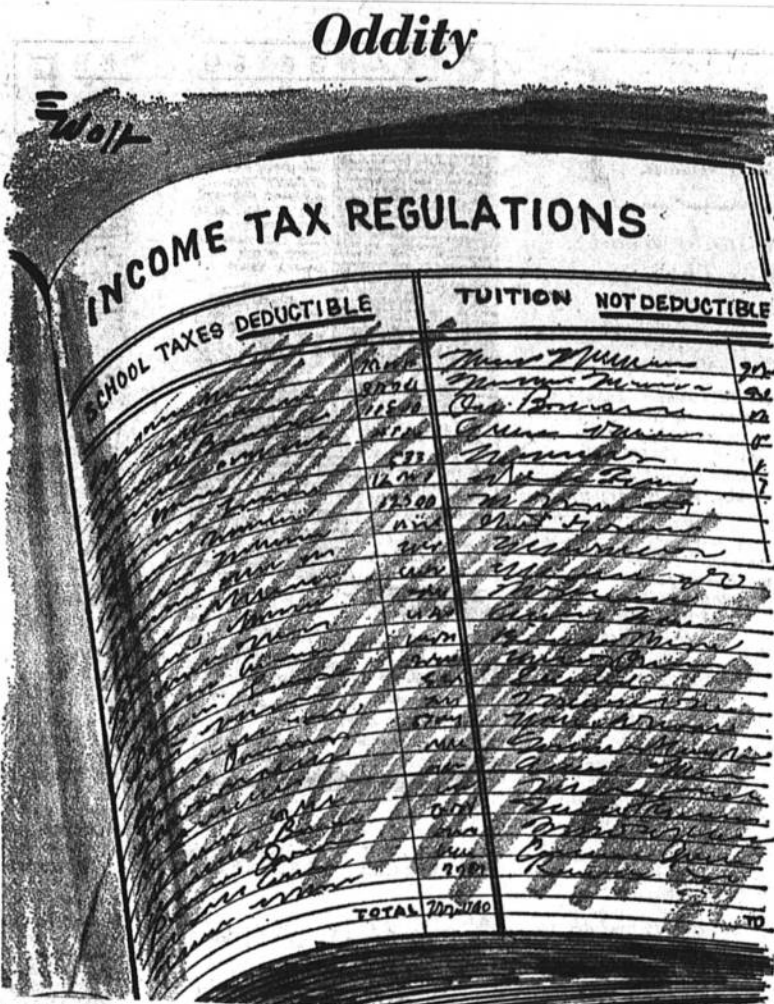

HERE ARE his exact words from the February World Marxist Review:

"A correct approach, it was stressed at the conference, should be taken with regard to Stalin's theoretical works. 'Stalin,' said Ilyichov, 'rendered services to the party and the communist movement in the sphere of theory as well. The works in which he popularized Marxism-Leninism, expounded Leninist views, upheld them against the opponents of socialism and adhered to correct theoretical theses, should not be ignored. Such, for instance, are his lectures on the Foundations of Leninism and his Marxism and the National Problem.'"

Although I referred to this incident hurriedly two weeks ago, I have given this full quotation now because it is one well worth keeping. "De-Stalinization," it tells us, has been a maneuver to befuddle us of the West.

The dead Stalin may be taken out of Lenin's tomb, but his theories continue to rule the Kremlin under Khrushchev.

We know from his Foundations of Leninism that the establishment of "the dictatorship of the proletariat in one country" was only to use it "as the base for the overthrow of imperialism in all countries." We know that in our period of history both Stalin and Khrushchev declare, through this theoretical work, that "the revolution is spreading beyond the confines of one country; the period of world revolution has commenced."

The Question Box

Boxing Is Different From Other Sports

Q. Is boxing morally objectionable?

For the sake of clarity we will distinguish amateur boxing or prizefighting as it is commonly called. Amateur boxing of the college variety does not present too great a moral problem. From what we can gather it is a relatively innocuous sport whose main purpose, aside from recreation and exercise, is the pursuit of the art of self defense. While it does involve attack as well as defense, the blows involved are normally moderate enough as to preclude any serious injury to the opponent.

PROFESSIONAL boxing, on the other hand, is a horse of a different color. Even at this writing it is under attack from all quarters as a result of the tragic outcome of the Griffith-Paret fight. Editorials have appeared in both the secular and religious press demanding an end to this senseless exhibition of barbarism that has taken the lives of so many fighters and seriously maimed countless others. Some of these editorials were anomalous indeed, considering that the papers in which they appeared have consistently catered to the devotees of prizefighting by recreating most vividly in pictures and words the bloodiest moments of these bouts.

It would appear from a cursory glance at the editorials and letters to the editor that the main objection against prizefighting is the threat it poses to life and limb. There is much to be said for this argument and the lifeless body of Benny (Kid) Paret says it all. Yet, it is not, in our opinion the most effective or convincing argument against present day professional boxing.

In the first place it is not always immoral to engage in violent sports where there is some risk to life and limb. Mountain climbing, hockey, football, polo, scuba diving, all involve some risk to life and limb, yet, the employment of reasonable safeguards make these morally unobjectionable.

IF ONE IS going to wield the "risk to life and limb" argument against boxing he must be prepared to argue several difficult points:

(1) He must be able to prove statistically that the mortality rate from boxing is significantly higher than the sports we have enumerated.

(2) Even after this has been established, he must show why impoverished fighters, whose only means of decent support is in their fists, could not justifiably risk life and limb to support their families.

These are difficulties which must be disposed of before one can weave from this cloth an effective argument against prizefighting.

THE HEART of the matter, as we see it, is not the threat to life and limb inherent in prizefighting, but that which brings this threat into being; that unwritten credo imposed upon every professional boxer, not by racketeers, or by promoters, or managers, but by the fans; the code which says "pound your opponent without mercy and, if possible, into senselessness."

Today's professional fighter steps into the ring with one purpose in mind — to "knockout" his opponent; fans come to the fight or stay glued to a television set hoping that they will be rewarded with a "knockout."

To millions of Americans the "knockout" is the logical and fitting conclusion to any fight. Few, it would appear, have any misgivings as to the moral aspects of this action. They recognize with little difficulty the inordinate character of the action of intoxication, where one violently deprives himself of the use of reason through drink; to allow oneself to be pounded into unconsciousness or, intentionally to seek to deprive another of consciousness, however, seems, to present no problem.

It is here, incidentally, that boxing differs so radically from any of the other sports enumerated above. A mountain climber does not begin his ascent in order to fall or cause others to fall; a tackle or block thrown in football is not or at least should not be directed toward knocking one's opponent senseless. These sports have their fatalities and injuries, but they are accidental in every sense of the word.

JUST HOW accidental is brain damage incurred in the ring when the overriding purpose of the fight is to deal one's opponent a blow sufficiently serious to knock him senseless? Just how accidental are facial scars when boxers are instructed by managers and fans alike to open up those cuts over the eyes? How accidental are eye injuries when it is considered good strategy to "go for the closing eye?"

In fairness to the reader we must indicate that the views here presented, while they reflect the sentiments of many moral theologians, are by no means the official teaching of the Church. Nor are moral theologians unanimous on this point.

While the greatest majority find present-day prizefighting morally objectionable, they are not entirely agreed on the precise nature of the immorality.

Writer Defends Father Cronin

Editor: It is with regret that I see that all of the letters thus far printed in The Advocate on the subject of Father Cronin's booklet have attacked Father Cronin. These letters infer that he dismisses the domestic Communist threat as a fable.

This is far from the truth. Father Cronin does not attack anti-communism, but only those who go to extremes in opposing "communism." To quote him: "Many of the more vocal anti-communist groups have connected communism with social philosophy they find unpopular. Many, for example, use the argument expressed by a former high government official in late 1961. It runs this way: Liberalism (or the Fair Deal or the New Frontier) is the same as the welfare state. The welfare state is socialism. And the communists say that they are socialists. Hence liberalism is communism."

As for the statement that Father Cronin is "terrorized by any movement to the right of Clifford Case," this would seem to be a "cute" statement made for the purpose of making Father Cronin appear ridiculous and branding all opponents of the writer of that letter as crackpots.

On the contrary, Archbishop-designate Paul J. Hallinan of Atlanta condemned not only the methods but also the conclusions of the Birchers. Rev. John Courtney Murray, S.J., said that the rightist forces who hope to defeat Communism by whipping up an emotional storm are on the "wrong track." Rev. John B. Sheerin, C.S.P., editor of The Catholic World and a nationally syndicated columnist, wrote that: "The Radical left is, however, a negligible factor in the United States today. It commands little influence. It would only serve the communist purposes if we were to focus all our attention on it and thus divert our attention from the real menace, communism abroad."

This is, basically, Father Cronin's position on the communist menace. Emotion will not defeat the communists. A sane approach to the real communist threat is what Father Cronin offers. Let us hope that he will be heeded.

Wants Rosary On Radio

Editor: Why is it not possible that we have the rosary said each evening on the radio, as it is being said all through upstate New York and in Canada?

It is usually sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, Rosary Societies, church, and even in some instances, by civic organizations.

I have tried on different occasions to contact people in responsible positions whom I thought might be of some help, but met with no response. Insofar as Our Lady has requested us to pray for peace, would it not be a blessing if a program such as this could be established in this vast metropolitan area?

In one of the programs from upstate New York, the priest says: "Remember, the world needs peace as much as your family needs peace."

God Love You

Congo Catholics Need Your Help

By BISHOP FULTON J. SHEEN

Did you know the population of the Congo is over 35 million? There are 3,500 priests, of whom 14% are African, and 3,500 nuns, of whom 10% are native.

During the recent communist inspired uprisings, Catholics acted magnificently. One youth leader refused a large sum of money that would have been his had he defected to communism. The laity sneered at bribes they were offered to falsely condemn the clergy and protested against the persecution of the latter.

What did the Communists do during the Congo crisis? They formed shock troops in Stanleyville to spread throughout the Congo. They infiltrated groups of Catholic teachers and unemployed youths. They led the government to believe that Catholic teachers asking for higher wages were actually revolting against the government.

They traveled through streets inviting everyone "to drink and have a good time at the expense of Lumumba." They tore down statues of Our Lady, stripped Sisters and made them crawl on gravel roads, shouting "We killed Lumumba, the Christ of the Congo!"

At present, the Bishops of the 40 dioceses report that there is much suffering in 10 of their jurisdictions. Yet, some 600,000 converts are under instruction, four times the number in the U. S. which has 11 times as many priests.

HERE IN the U. S., the Lord spares us persecutions. While other countries have their Good Fridays, we have our Palm Sundays. It is not because God loves us more that we are spared, for He often gives thorns to those He

Social Action Needed Now

By MSGR. GEORGE G. HIGGINS

Director, Social Action Department - NCWC

The Alliance for Progress — the Administration's imaginative and far-reaching program of economic aid for Latin America — went into effect a year ago last month and has already given new hope to Latin America.

More than any previous U.S. assistance program for Latin America, it has dramatized the economic interdependence of the United States and her sister republics south of the border.

This new awareness is not confined to our Government. The Church is also much more alert today than ever before to the urgent need for inter-American cooperation not only in the field of religion as such but also in the field of social welfare and social reform.

THE NEEDS of the Church in Latin America in the field of religion have been rather widely publicized during the past two or three years. No less important, however, are the needs of Catholic social action. Indeed it would probably be fair to say that the success of the Church in Latin America in the field of religion will depend in large measure on its success in developing an adequate program of social action.

The same thing can be said about the Alliance for Progress. Many observers of the Latin American scene are currently insisting that the Alliance for Progress will never fully succeed unless somehow or other it can work out a cooperative relationship with Catholic social action groups.

THIS POINT was made as recently as March 22 by Joseph E. Evans in a dispatch from Venezuela published in the Wall Street Journal. And if one is thinking in terms of getting things moving in South America, "especially moving against communism," Mr. Evans writes, "it is impossible to overlook the Catholic Church in an area overwhelmingly Catholic, although there are many fine Protestant institutions as well. Catholic missionaries, to take one aspect, unquestionably do many useful things beside the actual shepherding of souls. The Maryknollers in Bolivia, for example, have set up a

Wrong Use of Money Root of Marital Rift

By REV. JOHN L. THOMAS, S.J., Assistant Professor of Sociology, St. Louis University

How do you handle a spendthrift husband? Our 10 years of marriage have been nothing but debts, debts, debts. He makes good money but half of it must go for loans. I finally got him to stop gambling — he had a huge gambling debt when we married — yet he still throws money around freely at taverns. He'll never grow up!

In a prosperous commercial culture such as ours, it requires much more ability to use money intelligently than to earn or borrow it.

As your letter suggests, Vivian, this is especially true in marriage. Indeed, it is a matter of every day experience that some couples do very well on an income that reduces others to perennial financial straits.

THE PROBLEM was probably less acute when people had to "make" a living rather than "earn" it. This is to say, when there was economic self-sufficiency, there was less ready money available as well as less tendency to appraise everything in terms of dollar values.

Most current studies of marriage problems report that the "spending of money" ranks high among the sources of disagreement in the family. It should be noted that it is the expenditure of family income — rather than its amount that causes the trouble.

JUST TO complete the picture, moreover, it should be pointed out that although "insufficient income" is a factor over which couples frequently quarrel, their bickering over money is often a symptom of other marital tensions.

Unreconciled differences in temperament, family goals, social aspirations, sexual demands, and so forth, often generate disputes about the spending of family income. In such cases, "money" is a symbol, pointing to deeper problems.

YOUR CASE presents some symptomatic features, Vivian, since the actions and traits you ascribe to your husband indicate a type of personality that differs markedly from your own.

Like most responsible people, you feel that couples should live according to their means, that husbands and wives should share the burdens of the family as well as its joys, and that parents should make some provision for the future welfare of their children.

Your husband is a different type, yet his major weakness is not financial incompetency. What he lacks is a sense of responsibility.

HIS GAMBLING debts before marriage should have tipped you off! Profiting from the possibilities in our commercial culture, his major financial goal is to remain aloft — to keep just one step ahead of the bill-collectors.

He is not concerned with the losses others may incur because of his delay in paying his debts, nor does he bother to plan for the future, since he has always managed to get by somehow or other in the past.

Such persons are always basically selfish and self-centered in all their actions, for this type of irresponsibility is essentially the refusal to commit or give oneself deeply.

THUS WHEN you write that "everything is a joke to him," you really mean everything but himself, for you will notice that where he himself is concerned, he is not a joke.

What can you do? I think your first step is to understand the situation and accept it — at least as a starting point. This is the man you married, and it will only increase your frustration if you refuse to see him as he is. Don't expect him to take the initiative in saving, long range planning, or careful investment. Experience should have taught you that he won't.

HOWEVER, since you have made some progress by stopping him from gambling, perhaps continued firmness will register further gains. After due reflection and thought, make your feelings concerning his irresponsible spending perfectly clear to him.

Such husbands are not easy to get through to and often try to divert their wives from discussing sensitive issues by joking or getting angry, yet after the marriage breaks up, they complain that their wives never let them know how seriously they felt about the matter.

YOUR LETTER infers that you've about had it. Before you move, spell it out to him clearly — but show him you're dead serious.

Then if he is not utterly irresponsible, he'll make some changes. At least I hope so, for once couples separate for this reason, I find most wives unwilling to make a second try.

Little Imps People Her Pages...

By ANNE MAE BUCKLEY
CONVENT STATION — Once there was a brassy red-headed girl with a wild laugh like the call of an exotic bird and a talent for disrupting her classroom at St. Michael's, Newark, with candid comments unaffectedly shouted abroad.

"Albert bought nuts at 3 cents a pound," Sister Monica would say. And Lily would gasp: "That dope! What's he buying nuts for after the way they stung him on the peaches! I bet they say, 'Here comes Albit, boys. Pick out all the wormy ones!'"

LILY WAS REAL. We have it on the say-so of one of her classmates, one of the little girls who accepted the bits of taffy Lily would break off inside the striped candy bag. She's now Sister Mary Catharine O'Connor of the Sisters of Charity, and she remembers Lily so well that she has written a story about her. The tale, "Lily, Lily," is included in a book of stories and sketches due to be published April 11 by Sheed and Ward.

The book is "The Kinderbeast Prize" (see book review, Page 10) and Sister Mary Catharine, who is chairman of the English department at the College of St. Elizabeth, says Lily is only one of a long parade of real people who became characters in the stories.

"There is a basis of truth in everything that is included in the book," she says. "You add, subtract, transform architecturally, and build the thing into some unified whole..." Then you have what is found in "The Kinderbeast Prize" — IF you do it with Sister Mary Catharine's talent for observing, understanding and translating onto a page: people.

MOST OF THE PEOPLE whose stories are told in this collection are children. Although Sister Mary Catharine admits that the earliest of them were written years ago — when she was a very young Sister — she hastens to record that she was not "one of those children who write novels."

"As a child, instead of writing, I was spending my time outside, learning human nature, learning children." The children are impish, lovable, kind, fresh, scrupulous, carefree, outlandish, believable, bold, shy, hilarious — and so much more than real children, repeat, real, children are.

THERE ARE memorable portraits of adults too, among whom some will be recognized as Lily may be by those who sat in class with her. Anyone connected with a certain North Jersey Catholic hospital might recognize the Italian man who feared that his two dead wives were "fighting in heaven" over the lavish grave-marker of the one. Some will remember that there was really a Sister who strode rib-deep into a lake to rescue a duck from an attacking turtle.

And many will know that the kindly stranger who bailed the little girl "racketeers" out of a jam was none other than the late Bishop John J. O'Connor of Newark.

"He really did walk his Irish Setter near his house in South Orange," Sister Mary Catharine recalls. "And he would have said just such a thing as 'Better stay away from cat toms.'" Sister Mary Catharine would know about such things because she is the late Bishop's niece, the daughter of a brother who was "like his twin," William Farrell O'Connor.

AND TO REVEAL one last secret — Sister Mary Catharine laughs deliciously thinking of its inevitable effect on her present students — the author herself appears several times. She is the child who was thought to be a math genius until her "research" source, the girl across the aisle, died. And she is also the little girl who was thought to be a music sight-reading genius until she came to the end of the one book she'd memorized. (When you read "Kinderbeast" you'll see that it was all very understandable, how it happened...)

Sister Mary Catharine attended St. Michael's School (with Lily), St. Vincent's Academy, and the College of St. Elizabeth. Shortly after graduation from St. E's, she joined the Sisters of

SISTER M. CATHARINE

Charity, and has remained on the motherhouse grounds ever since. First she taught in a small school for small boys there, then in St. Elizabeth's Academy, and finally in the college. She's taught math as well as English. From her creative writing course have emerged dozens of St. Elizabeth alumnae who have taken their places in the public relations, editorial and advertising fields. Betsy Talbot Blackwell, the editor of Mademoiselle, national fashion monthly, is fond of telling that it was Sister Mary Catharine's teaching in St. Elizabeth's Academy that helped her to her present spot, without college.

SISTER MARY CATHARINE holds a master's degree from Fordham and a Ph.D. from Columbia. Her first three short stories (they are included in "Kinderbeast") were written for a creative writing summer course at Notre Dame under the late Rev. Leo Ward, C.S.C. Father Ward, whom Sister Mary Catharine calls "the one who did most for me as a writer," sold the stories to Ave Maria magazine. The title story, "The Kinderbeast Prize," appeared originally in The New Yorker in 1947 under the pen-name, Catharine Farrell. Others were first seen in The Catholic World, Extension and the St. Elizabeth College Alumna. All the "sketches" and some of the stories are published here for the first time.

NOW, ON THE EVE of publication, Sister Mary Catharine is calm, philosophical about the fuss people are making (she's been interviewed for radio, will be honored at a publication day tea here for which the Sisters have constructed a huge "kinderbeast") and looking forward to snatching more summer time for writing.

She cherishes one advance comment in particular though. "Uncle John (Bishop O'Connor) would have enjoyed it," said her sister, Lucie O'Connor of Newark.

The profits from "Kinderbeast" will go toward the new buildings rising on the St. Elizabeth's campus near a residence called O'Connor Hall for Sister Mary Catharine's episcopal uncle.

AN AUTHOR'S WORK should show "what he thinks is important in life," Sister Mary Catharine insists. This, she says, is "more important than a moral or theme."

She is firm on the point that "any successful fiction should be interesting." This, she observes, "may sound like a gratuitous statement, but some of the very arty stories aren't interesting."

MOST IMPORTANTLY, she feels that "an author should have a strong sense of our common humanity, should know people — human nature — well, and be deeply interested."

It was a little difficult interviewing Sister Mary Catharine, because she was, at the same time, interviewing me. She can't help it, I figured, she's that interested in people, all people.

And if you wonder which interviewer was more successful, I can only say this: I didn't manage to find out Sister Mary Catharine's age — but she found out mine!

BACK READING — Ray Kerrison, with wife, Monica, at his side, tackles tall stack of books that built up unread while he was writing his own, "Bishop Walsh of Maryknoll, Prisoner of Red China," just published.

He Writes of Mission Hero

By JERRY COSTELLO

RIDGEFIELD — A young Australian newsman has transformed his life-long admiration of mission priests into a book, published this week, which tells the exciting story of one of the greatest mission priests in American history.

The book is "Bishop Walsh of Maryknoll, Prisoner of Red China," and the author is 32-year-old Ray Kerrison, who works for an Australian news bureau in New York and lives with his family in a Ridgefield garden apartment.

"THE MARYKNOLL Fathers told me there'd be a good book in Bishop Walsh," Kerrison said. "Well, I don't know how good the book turned out to be, but Bishop Walsh's story is certainly fascinating. He's a man in a million."

Writing a book was a project that had long been on Kerrison's mind before he visited Maryknoll headquarters in New York State about three years ago.

"Missionary priests have always interested me," Kerrison noted, "so the general topic was easy enough. Maryknoll seemed a logical enough place to go for information, and they were very helpful."

Rev. Albert Nevins, M.M., helped Kerrison with the initial stages of his research and suggested three mission priests — in Guatemala, Mexico and Peru — whose stories would be especially interesting. For six months the journalist spent his spare time researching and writing to the three priests involved.

HE HAD A month of vacation time at hand in June, 1960, and was on the verge of leaving for Latin America to see the priests personally when a letter from G. P. Putnam's intervened.

The New York publishing firm, aware that Kerrison was doing a book connected with the Maryknoll Fathers, suggested he delay the original work and write instead about Bishop Walsh.

"There was more or less a firm commitment to publish the Bishop Walsh story, but none on the other book," Kerrison explained. "That helped to tip the balance."

KERRISON doesn't know whether or not the gallant Bishop is aware that a book has been written about him.

The author visited Bishop Walsh's brother and two sisters in Maryland in connection with his research, and while they still receive letters from him, the letters are little more than innocuous trifles — a poignant irony in view of the host of vigorous and dynamic writings which Kerrison quotes liberally in the book.

KERRISON came to Ridgefield from his South Australian hometown of Renmark the long way — via Singapore, Adelaide, Melbourne and London. After starting his career on local papers, he went to Singapore — still single — for a hitch with the Singapore Straights-Times. Back in Australia, he married his hometown sweetheart and worked for the Adelaide News and Reuters in Melbourne before going to London in 1956.

He was a sub-editor for 12 months with the Daily Sketch, a position which ended when he told the editor he'd rather write than edit. The next day he was doing neither.

He and his wife didn't have enough money to go home to Australia, and a second child was due in a month.

"IT WAS sink or swim at that point," Kerrison recalled, "and we thought America might be as good a place as any for us. I had a friend who was the New York correspondent for the Sydney Morning Herald, and there was a chance he might be able to help us out."

The friend proved to be just that. He was leaving his job, and Kerrison took it over — 18 hours after landing in New York. For the past 2½ years he has been with News Limited of Australia, now serving as New York editor. The agency reports U. S. news of interest to Australians for a chain of Australian papers.

RAY AND HIS pretty wife, Monica, now have four children: Catherine, 8, born in Australia; Loretta, 6, born in England, and 3-year-old twins Louise and Damien, born here. The older girls attend St. Matthew's School in Ridgefield.

"Monica was a wonderful help to me in doing this book," Kerrison pointed out. "She did most of the typing, and keeping the youngsters quiet is a job in itself."

How about another book — perhaps the Latin American Maryknollers' story?

"I CERTAINLY hope to do another," the author declared, "but it is a long process. I have more to do at work now, which cuts down on my time, and do you know I didn't read a book all the while I wrote my own?"

He pointed to the low book-cases to either side of him, each of them filled with volumes. "Sure, I'd love to do another book... but I've got a lot of catching up to do first."

Communication And the Church

By JOSEPH A. BREIG

One of my ambitions as a journalist is to do what I can to see that the image of the Church in the minds of the world's people is a true image. I want her to be seen as she is, not as she is sometimes misrepresented, intentionally or unintentionally.

I think it undeniable that anything contributing to that end would help to make the coming ecumenical council a success.

I simply want what Pope John wants. He has said he called the council to make what changes may be needed so that mankind might see the Church in her real beauty, "without spot or wrinkle."

IF I WERE asked to make a suggestion as a newspaperman, I would propose that certain public relations procedures be adopted to guard against confusion that sometimes follows issuance of directives or decrees of the Holy See.

I point to some of the reports that appeared after publication of Pope John's apostolic constitution, Veterum Sapientia (Wisdom of the Ancients) which stressed the importance of Latin for the Church, for culture, for clarity, and for unity and understanding among nations.

Almost entirely, Wisdom of the Ancients was concerned with Latin as the language especially valuable for the educating of priests, particularly in the sacred sciences.

QUESTIONS arose, however, over a brief passage which referred to Latin in the liturgy.

The passage directed Bishops and superiors of religious congregations to see that "none of their subjects, moved by an inordinate desire for novelty, write against the use of Latin either in the teaching of the sacred disciplines or in the sacred rites of the liturgy."

Some felt that the Pope had decided to silence those who have been urging that some use of native tongues in the liturgy — especially the dialogue Mass — would promote liturgical understanding.

OTHERS THOUGHT, as I did, that Pope John was merely reconfirming the importance of Latin so that there would be no misunderstanding about the fact that use of native tongues does not detract from Latin's primacy.

In saying that no one should write against Latin in the liturgy, did Pope John mean that nobody should write in favor of some use of English and other native tongues?

Many journalists thought the only possible answer was "yes." They sent out stories that Pope John had halted all further discussion of use of mother tongues in the liturgy.

It is a fact that journalists sometimes do jump to conclusions, and I think it would be good for religion if Rome would take steps to prevent as far as possible wrong conclusions and confusion.

WHEN A DIRECTIVE or decree is made public, wouldn't it be helpful to hand to reporters an explanation of its meaning, and to give them a prompt opportunity to ask questions of a spokesman who has been made ready with answers?

I can see that sometimes there might be a delay on one query or another. But at least the journalists could be informed that this was the case, and advised to inform their readers that the answer would be forthcoming soon.

Obviously, decisions and actions of the Holy See are so important for religion, for souls and for world understanding that every reasonable effort should be made to avoid misinterpretations.

NOTHING SHORT of the best possible public relations is good enough for the Church. When the Holy See has decided something, certainly it wants the people to know, promptly, exactly what the decision is, and what it means. Confusions have arisen too often. When Pius XII, for instance, altered the Communion fast, people in some places weren't sure for weeks just what he had done.

Improvement in communications would be a great good.

'Lab Course' for Teachers

Learning From Blind Pupils

By ANTOINETTE TOMANELLI

JERSEY CITY — Future teachers at Seton Hall in Paterson and South Orange are "seeing" the learning process with the help of children at St. Joseph's Home for the Blind here.

The project is part of a graduate course in elementary education conducted by Naomi Gilpatrick of Haskell. With the encouragement of Sister Rose Imelda, C.S.J., principal of St. Joseph's, the 30 students visit the home at different times, in groups of about five, to teach the blind children to read. They also show them how to tie a bow, to use the braille typewriter, and to color with crayons.

"WHEN WE work with children who have problems in learning, it helps to open our eyes to the initial learning process," Miss Gilpatrick explains. "It also throws light on the problem of the child in general in the classroom. With a child who has no handicap the learning to read process happens very quickly and the teacher can't really see what's happening. Thus we learn how children learn."

She went on to describe the reading process through the use of readiness books for the blind. These contain little pieces of cloth with a nap which are cut into various geometrical figures. Farther in the book, the pieces of cloth are replaced by little punched holes. "A seeing child would look at two shapes of a star and compare them. The blind child must feel the shapes of the two stars to recognize them."

ONE OF THE Seton Hall students, Margaret Cherney, told about her experience in teaching John, aged 12, to read. Crippled by cerebral palsy as well as being blind, he lacked sensitivity in his fingers.

"After a short while and many tries, I found Sister Rose Imelda was absolutely correct," she reported. "John could not even feel the difference between a circle and a square. At this point, I thought how lucky a normal child is, for at least he is physically able to learn even though he also might require repeated drills."

STUDENTS BOTH — Mrs. Joseph Harrison, Seton Hall education student, gets first-hand teaching experience as she helps blind Jimmy learn to tie a bow.

Mrs. Joseph Harrison and Jimmy were busy tying bows at a hall table. Jimmy was only partially successful; he is mentally retarded in addition to being blind. His joy in completing half the assignment, however, was evident — as was his teacher's.

ANOTHER GROUP practiced folding a napkin and pulling it through a ring. "Naturally the children found this difficult, having no sense of direction," Connie Parrillo reported. "It was truly amazing to see how determined they were in spite of their continued failures."

This is the second term that Miss Gilpatrick has included such work with the blind children in her education courses.

SHE COMMENTED, "This is a raw learning situation which is unique enough to make the teaching student think — think in educational terms, through an actual life teaching situation. I have them write down their intuitions and impressions afterward and then I can help

Buddhist Prophecy Fulfilled by Priest

HONG KONG (NC) — The Chinese characters cut into the wall of the pagan temple read: "100 sons and 1,000 nephews."

A Catholic priest fulfilled this Buddhist prophecy.

HE IS Rev. Diego Valca D. Ayala, P.I.M.E., who simultaneously converted a pagan village of 25 into a Catholic stronghold and its family temple into the Chapel of Our Lady of Sorrows. That was in 1935.

Today, this still entirely Catholic rural village of Kam Tsin, 10 miles from Red China's border, numbers "100 sons."

The "1,000 nephews?" They belong to refugee families spread over outlying farms. When Bishop Lawrence Bianchi, P.I.M.E., of Hong Kong baptized 110 persons and confirmed 97 under the red pagoda roof of this small one-time temple in early March, the second part of the prophecy finally came true.

IT ALL BEGAN 27 years ago when Father D'Ayala, bicycling through Kam Tsin, was halted by the village's head clansman.

"Teach me about the religion of this Master of Heaven," said the peddler. "No, my friend," replied the Italian missionary. "You are the Elder here and if you started alone this would split your village and break up your clan. That would be very bad!"

When Father D'Ayala revisited Kam Tsin a few weeks later, he found that its head clansman had reached a simple solution. The entire village was waiting.

Did You Know That They Were Protestants?

By JUNE DWYER

Sister M. Mariella, R.S.M. of Camden Catholic High School wrote an article in the Camden Catholic paper, the Catholic Star Herald, which should really start us all thinking — even the smallest of us. Sister's article is entitled, "What I Like About Protestants."

Her article is about her own dealings with the Protestants she met as a child and a young woman — those who influenced her life. Sister wrote of her employer, a middle-aged Protestant woman: "She weighed a full pound for customers who paid for a pound, gave consideration to employees, administered correction kindly and after the manner of the Master [Christ]; she was sincere in her 'good morning' and 'good night'."

SISTER Mariella also wrote: "We enjoy the fruits of Franklin's brotherhood, Emerson's philosophy, Lincoln's wisdom, Roosevelt's leadership and Glenn's courage. We love our nation and the principles which Protestant leaders incorporated into it. The United States is a Protestant country, yet we Catholics cherish our citizenship and 'swell with pride' at the mention of the red, white and blue."

Sister Mariella has done something wonderful. Not only has she made us stop to read of the good Protestants she has met but she has probably made a good many people stop to think of the wonderful Protestants who have stood out in their own lives. If she could do this for each Catholic how much warmer would be the relations with our Protestant friends and neighbors.

BUT PERHAPS one of the reasons that little Mary and Johnny and even Sister Mariella do not think much about the Protestants in their lives is that they take them for what they are, not for what they believe.

We love the Wars across the street who are Episcopalians because they are good neighbors and good people — because they helped us to grow up loving our parents and our country. Because they took time to show us how to grow a better rose or why you keep garbage in the back of the yard.

IT NEVER mattered to little people that the Lucases went to the Presbyterian Church. We knew there was a difference, of course, but the Lucases believed in their church — and they believed in giving time to community activities, in encouraging cultural programs, and they believed in us too.

WE HAVE ALL met them — these wonderful people we have loved and who have loved us. But perhaps we, child and adult alike, never thought to put them into one category until now. Diane was not a Protestant when she cared for her sick friend nor were the Norrises and the Reeds when they opened their homes to a visiting stranger. They were Good Samaritans, children of God, Christians, good citizens, warm people. Let's take time to be grateful for these wonderful Protestant friends and the charity and goodness of their lives. Then let us be just as grateful that in our country a man and woman are still judged by their charity and their goodness and not by the manner in which they choose to love God.

Mrs. Peter Cass Cites Role Of Women at UN Meeting

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Mrs. Peter Cass of Bloomfield, permanent representative of the UN Economic and Social Council for the World Federation of Catholic Young Women and Girls, stressed the value of vocational training at the current session of the UN Commission on the Status of Women here.

Mrs. Cass also supported a proposed study by the International Labor Organization on vocational orientation and preparation for young girls and women.

Since the vast majority of women marry and assume the obligations of a family, she said, no study would be complete which does not consider the efforts made to harmonize general and technical education with education for family life.

"TO THIS end," Mrs. Cass stated, "we deem courses in home management, child care and family life preparation not complementary to woman's education, but indispensable. In fact, with necessary variations, we deem it equally indispensable to the education of men."

BINATION is the offering of Mass twice in the same day by the same priest.

Speakers, Scholars, Writers, Leaders In the Caldwell Spring Spotlight

CALDWELL — Victories in intercollegiate competitions, graduation honors, and class and club election results were announced this week by Caldwell College for Women.

Sharon Logue of Maywood won the first-place trophy for extemporaneous speaking in a contest sponsored by the New Jersey Intercollegiate Speech Association. Coached by Sister M. Regina, O.P., debating society, moderator, she competed against 18 other students.

TWO OF the intercollegiate laurels came from the New Jersey Collegiate Press Association. Carolyn Caprio of West Caldwell was nominated for president of the NJCPA and will run against Nicholas Scelera of Seton Hall. Elections will be May 12 at a meeting at Stevens Institute, Hoboken.

The second NJCPA honor was a certificate and $15 cash prize to Doris Perella of Union, who submitted the winning design for an association seal.

THE GRADUATION honors consist of membership in two national Catholic graduate honor societies conferred on seven Caldwell seniors.

Nominated to Delta Epsilon Sigma, on the basis of college scholastic record are: Patricia Monterosa, Newark; Patricia O'Rourke, of Harrison; Helen Gabriel, Clifton; Conetta Dent, Lyndhurst; Doris Kunath, Nutley, and Sally Hall, Wayne.

Misses O'Rourke, Monterosa and Gabriel have also achieved nomination to Kappa Gamma Pi, on the basis of academic and activities records at Caldwell.

IN CAMPUS elections, Kathleen Conroy of Newark won the Student Association presidency. Serving with her will be Patricia Morris, Union; Maureen Kelly, North Arlington; and Barbara Detrich, Morrisville, Pa.

Delegates to the National Federation of Catholic College Students will be Maureen Manning, Belleville, and Denise Delaney, Boonton.

Barbara Brande, Union City, was named president of Ergo, the college philosophy honor society. Class officers for the coming year include presidents Dolores Ernst, Babylon, N. Y. seniors; Bonnie Harms, North Arlington (Juniors), and Joan Stegala, Perth Amboy (sophomores).

An Alabama SOS Has Jersey Touch

NEWARK — The note received here told of St. Patrick's Missionary Cenacle, Phenix City, Ala., and its need to build. The Cenacle was asking for dollars for bricks. The pleading hands belonged to three North Jersey women who are now stationed at St. Patrick's as Missionary Servants of the Most Blessed Trinity.

The three are parishioners of St. Michael's, Newark, who entered the community at different times. All three were members of the Missionary Cenacle Apostolate, a lay group associated with the Missionary Servants.

They are known in religion as Sisters Marie Trinita, Joseph Rita and Paul Vincent and were formerly Agnes Matia, Rita Lacenza and Jackie Giordano. All are teaching grade school.

SISTER MARIE Trinita celebrated her silver jubilee as a Sister in 1960 at St. Michael's. Among her fondest memories are 11 years at the Blessed Trinity Mission House, West Orange, where she taught catechism, worked on scouting, and moderated a mothers club and a men's group.

She is teaching kindergarten at St. Patrick's besides assisting in the drive.

Sister Joseph Rita, a graduate of Barringer High School, is a former athlete. She was on the CYO basketball team for five years and played semi-professional baseball during high school years.

She entered the convent in 1951, took final vows in 1957 and has served in Holy Trinity, Alabama, and at an orphanage in Oklahoma City, Okla. Now she teaches second grade.

SISTER PAUL Vincent graduated from St. Michael's High School in 1952 and attended Seton Hall University College for a short time while working for an insurance company. In 1953 she entered the missionary community, taking final vows in 1960.

She has been stationed in Philadelphia, Gadsden, Ala., and St. Patrick's. She presently teaches fourth grade.

To Read Paper

CONVENT — Five chemistry majors from the College of St. Elizabeth will present research papers at the annual meeting of the New Jersey Academy of Sciences at Monmouth College April 7.

Quote Of the Week

"The Church has a wonderful story to tell, but most outsiders do not know what it is. The key to Church publicity... is for each parish to have an over-all publicity committee to coordinate the efforts of various groupings within the parish." Msgr. John E. Kelly, director of the NCWC Bureau of Information, to St. Louis Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women.

More Than 60 Planning For ACCW Convention

NEWARK — Over 60 women from the nine districts of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women attended the March 31 meeting of the convention committee at Essex Catholic High School. The convention will be held May 5 at the school.

Mrs. William J. Lamb of Scotch Plains, chairman, announced the day will open with a Mass Recitation (Mass with members responding to the Mass prayers) at 9:30 a.m. Archbishop Boland will be the celebrant.

THE TENTATIVE program as announced by Eleanor McGlynn of Jersey City, program chairman, includes a panel discussion with archdiocesan chairmen participating in the morning and a speaker in the afternoon after lunch.

Other business included a call for resolutions before April 7 from Mrs. Richard J. Strasser, archdiocesan president, and announcement of an April 5 deadline for boosters.

Mrs. William Ford and Mrs. John Nelson, both of Westfield, head the booster committee. Vivien Sylvester of Scotch Plains, exhibit chairman, announced booths will represent each of the active committees.

Booth chairmen to date are Mrs. Harry Hasson, Union, social action; Mrs. Raymond McNeill, Bergenfield, public relations; Mrs. C. Leroy, Tenafly, spiritual development; Mrs. Stanley Francy, Elizabeth, and Mrs. John Quinn, Jersey City, discussion clubs; and Mrs. J. J. Tierney, Jersey City, libraries and literature.

College of St. Elizabeth Prepares a 'Big Splash'

CONVENT — The olympic-sized swimming pool at the College of St. Elizabeth will be transformed into a watery showcase for a student aquacade, "Spring Fever," April 13-15.

Performances are at 8 a.m. Friday and Saturday and 7:30 Sunday in St. Joseph Hall. The audience will view the show through the glass windows of the student lounge or from the gallery surrounding the pool.

HIGHLIGHTS of the aquacade include "Flights of Fancy" by gossamer-winged swimmers, "Moments of Harmony," a duet by sophomores Peggy and Pat Kargl; a wild-life interlude and a "trip to Bermuda" in which swimmers will ride bicycles.

Alicia O'Connor, a senior, will solo in "Reflections." An acrobatic chorus will star in "Carnival Capers." Easter bonnets and gloved arms only will show above the surface in a seasonal tribute and all 90 swimmers will participate in the finale.

THE SHOW, the culmination of the year's activities, is expected to draw more than the 225 per night required for a sell out.

The production given annually since 1954, is directed by Elizabeth Ford, athletic association advisor and physical education department chairman.

Show chairman is Maria Cravanzola with Gerri Haug handling costumes and Sue Korn the scenic designer. Kathleen Craugh and Kathleen McManus are authors. Rosalie Jannetta is chairman of specialty numbers.

Wayne Rosarians

Bring Weekly Prayers to Old Lips

WAYNE — A card in the mail, a phone call on Wednesday and the Rosary women of Our Lady of the Valley know that they are to be at Alps Manor in the afternoon to do their part for the conversion of Russia.

Rev. James J. Rugel, pastor, had ministered to the people in the home since he arrived in the mission parish. He brings Communion weekly and offers Mass at the manor on the first Monday of each month. When he found an elderly man who wished to undergo instructions he asked Mrs. Louis Colacurci, a Rosarian, to help with the instructions.

THE SEED was planted as Mrs. Colacurci saw the faith of the man's wife who had been praying for his conversion for 52 years. Then she saw how much he looked forward to her visits and to hearing about God.

The two thoughts merged into a Rosary project whereby the women would pray for the conversion of Russia and the ecumenical council by making weekly visits to the old folks and saying the rosary with them.

FATHER RUGEL was there to lead the first rosary and Mrs. Joseph Buonanno, the mother of five, volunteered to organize and coordinate the project.

She sends the post cards to the women when their turn comes and calls the six women who are to be there on Wednesday as an extra reminder. The women split into pairs and go to different parts of the building where they lead the rosary.

THE RESPONSE is simple and touching. Old folks wheel their chairs or walk slowly into the rooms for the prayer. All faiths join in the rosary. If the women should be late or postpone the day because of weather, Mrs. William Ohlmeier, head nurse, says the old people want to know why and "Will they come again?"

The old folks love the weekly meditation but no more than the Rosary women. Mrs. Colacurci said: "We wanted to give the ill and aged some of our spiritual strength, sense of courage and to give them a feeling of being needed and having a purpose in life... but we are gaining far more strength from them than we had to give."

FAREWELL — Sister M. Gabriel Jollett of the Medical Mission Sisters says good-bye to one of her patients at Holy Family Hospital, Karachi, West Pakistan, before returning to Madison for a rest and a visit with her aunt, Marie Jollett. A nurse-midwife, Sister Gabriel was superior of the 130-bed hospital she has served since 1955.

Eleven Schools Capture Crowns

NEWARK — Eleven schools captured championships to highlight another successful basketball season which went into the record books following the Eastern States Catholic Invitation Tournament at Newport, R. I., last weekend.

Holy Family led the champions, winning the only state honor brought home by a North Jersey five. The Blue Bishops won the Catholic C crown.

ST. PETER'S, the runner-up in Catholic A, nipped Holy Family in the first all-Catholic Hudson County final. Another county champ was St. Mary's (E) in Union County.

St. Bonaventure became one of two double-titlists as it annexed its first Passaic-Bergen Catholic Conference crown and won the Paterson Diocesan tournament. The Indians also posted the best winning percentage with a 20-3 record, slightly better than the 24-4 hung up by St. Peter's and the 23-5 racked up by Holy Family.

Don Bosco, which closed with a 20-4 mark, went undefeated in the Tri-County Catholic Conference race and won that diadem.

Archbishop Walsh, rounding out its final season of basketball in fine fashion, won 19 of 24 games, including the top spot in the Don Bosco Tech Holiday Festival. Bergen Catholic (17-9) won the Bergen County Holiday Festival.

In other Christmas tournaments, Marist won the Marist Brothers B division and St. Cecilia's (K) captured the St. Mary's (R) event.

St. Mary's (JC) closed the season with a rush to post the best record in the school's history — 14-9 — and win the North Jersey Catholic Conference tournament.

IN THE INDIVIDUAL scoring race, Johnny Kupchak of St. Patrick's, who led all season, finished on top with a 29.6 average and 652 points. He was one of two juniors to reach 1,000 points. Holy Family's Tom Greeley made that level in the state final.

Three seniors, Frank Nicoletti of St. Peter's, Dave Dillon, St. James, and Stan Sanjak, Kupchak's teammate at St. Patrick's, all went over 1,000.

Best Feet Forward

Top Tracksters to Face Plebes

By ED GRANT
WEST POINT — The best time the New Jersey Catholic Track Conference has to offer for the 1962 outdoor season will face the West Point Plebes at Lt. Richard Shea Memorial Field here April 7.

This second annual meet between the conference and the plebes should, weather permitting, provide the same kind of enjoyable action for the youngsters, their families and conference officials that the first trip did a year ago.

NOT A DUAL meet in the true sense of the word—the NJCTC boys represent their individual schools, not the conference — it still provides a good test from which clues may be drawn as to what to expect this season.

Since chief interest now lies in the big relay meets of April, much attention will center on how Seton Hall fares in the two-mile relay, as well as how the Pirate individual entries, Al Fraenkel and Bob Dyke in the 880, Norb Merck in the mile and Ted Zizlperger in the two mile, make out against both their conference and plebe rivals.

St. Benedict's, which plans to meet the Pony Pirates head-on in the two-mile and distance medley relays April 18 and 21, has Steve Berick in the 880, Eamon O'Reilly in the mile or two mile (or both) and will run the one-mile relay with three of the four boys who will compete at Penn: Gerry Murphy, John Christoff and Howie Kron.

BUT THERE will also be plenty to watch in other events with an eye toward the NJCTC and NJSAA championships, which come almost back-to-back this year May 30 and June 2. This will be the only time the field event stars appear on the same program before those championship meets.

Thus, the efforts of Roger Radecke of Roselle Catholic in the discus and javelin, Gus Zilincer of Christian Brothers Academy in the shot and discus, Ted Britting of Essex Catholic in the broad jump, Paul Drew of St. Benedict's and Ed Mulvihill of CBA in the high jump and Jim Wolf of Seton Hall in the pole vault will be checked off by the various coaches present for evaluation when the time comes to make out their own entries for the championship meets.

The top individual of the meet, of course, should be Jerry Krumelch of Essex Catholic, who will try to repeat last year's double victory in the sprints and then anchor the Eagles' mile relay team.

In a trial at Lincoln Park, Jersey City, March 31, Jerry ran a 49.2 quarter mile to bring Essex home in front of St. Benedict's in a fast 3:31.3.

The meet may even see one or two of the accompanying all-time NJCTC records broken, though the April winds over the plains here will have to cooperate. One of the present records was set here last year, John Fisher's discus mark of 146 feet, 9.1-2 inches.

T-CCC Outlook

Bergen Catholic Tabbed to Win

Everyone is touting Bergen Catholic as the team to beat in the Tri-County Catholic Conference's baseball race. But the race could develop into a five-team battle, involving all members of the league.

St. Joseph's (WNY), which struggled down to the final game before losing the 1961 title to Don Bosco, is no longer a member of the circuit. The Blue Jays, who would have been strong contenders again this season, have moved into the Hudson County Interscholastic Athletic Association.

ALTHOUGH Bergen Catholic seems to have more pre-season promise than any of the other clubs, the Crusaders will not be able to coast.

If it comes up with pitching, Don Bosco will be in the thick of the fight once again as will St. Cecilia's (E). Pope Pius and Queen of Peace also look good, but a number of question marks in each camp make predictions difficult at this point.

Three of the five teams will have new coaches — Rich O'Brien, the basketball coach, at Don Bosco; Art Gaul, Queen of Peace, and Ray Mastroberte, Pope Pius. Vic Ligio will return at Bergen Catholic and Ralph Cavallucci at St. Cecilia's.

A team-by-team rundown follows:

BERGEN CATHOLIC—The Crusaders have most of the players back who helped them upset Don Bosco twice and St. Joseph's once in their last three T-CCC games in 1961, making them the most-obvious choice this year. Norm Dermody (2-3), a junior who shut out St. Joseph's and Don Bosco in his last two appearances, figures to be the ace of the staff with plenty of help from senior Bob Doyle (1-0), junior Paul Duggan (2-0) and sophomore Bruce Shannon, a newcomer.

Catcher John Hammer and centerfielder Andy Corinetti, a pair of .350 hitters, will lead the offense. There'll be plenty of experience around the infield with Bill Kitley at first, George Cowan at second, Mike Sullivan at shortstop and Bob Caste at third. Pat Scott and either Joe Melchiorre or John Lama will join Corinetti in the outfield.

DON BOSCO — With Jim Sisco (7-2) and Bill Van Voor- (6-2) graduated, the pitching burden will fall on junior Terry Murray (2-1) and Don Aurriemma. The infield will be strong with Dick Brown at first, Ray Piodkowski at second, Joe Jiminez at shortstop and Tom Podgorski at third.

All but Piodkowski, who may be spelled by Murray at times, were regulars last year.

Jim Mistretta, a standout receiver, will combine with rightfielder Dan Pryor to provide the hitting punch. Stan Frankowski will cover centerfield with Joe Cook the top candidate for leftfield.

POPE PIUS — Two experienced pitchers, Bob Lesko (1-8) and Fabian Izsa (1-3), are expected to help the Eagles' fortunes with Tom Meisner another mound prospect. Speed and sound defense are other attributes of Pope Pius, but hitting is a little weak.

Jerry Kalembe, a crack shortstop, and Rich Bakker, a veteran third baseman, give fine protection to the left side of the infield. On the right side, Frank Bruen will be at first and either Charlie Giamo or Sal Puzo at second. Dick Knothe, a speed merchant, will take charge of the outfield from his centerfield post, flanked by Bob Medwick and Brian Macken. Al Stakowski is the catcher.

QUEEN OF PEACE — Pitching is one of the bright notes for the Queensmen with soph Mike Smith (1-5) showing a lot of promise along with juniors Red McGarry (2-4) and John Schlitt (0-5).

Gaul expects his team to be strong down the middle with Art Bremmer behind the plate, Bill Wynne and Bill Petracca at second and shortstop, respectively, and Sal Valenta in centerfield. Round-out the infield are Tom Riley at first and Frank Sangi or Fred Cecelia at third. McGarry or Schlitt will hold one outfield assignment with Tom Cerika in the other.

ST. CECILIA'S — Big things are expected from Kip Gaynor (3-3), a strong-armed right-hander with Tom Zurlo (2-1) and Jim Seville, who was sidelined most of last season with

Eagles Take State Crown

PARAMUS — Led by George Hagen's sparkling 650 series, Pope Pius captured the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association bowling championship March 31 at Paramus Bowl.

He also sparked the Eagles to a sweep of Bergen Catholic here last week as they nailed down the Catholic High School Bowling League title. He scored 420 in two games against the runner-up Crusaders.

Besides the championship honor, Pope Pius took all but one trophy in the state event. It had top team game, 1,046; top team series, 2,885, and top individual series, which was scored by Hagen.

Irrington finished second in the state competition, more than 100 points off the Eagles' pace.

In other Catholic Bowling League games, third-place Don Bosco beat St. Cecilia's (E), 2-1, and Queen of Peace won by forfeit against St. Mary's (R).

Werkman Cops Scoring Title

SOUTH ORANGE — Nick Werkman, Seton Hall University's sophomore flash, captured the individual scoring title in the initial year of the Garden State Basketball League.

In four games, he averaged 37.2 points per game, 4.2 points above the 33-point mark which gave him the third spot in the national scoring race. He also took down the most rebounds in one game — 30 against St. Peter's.

Al Senavitis of Seton Hall and Tom Lynch of St. Peter's shared third place with identical 20.2 averages. The Peacocks' Pete Norton was fifth with a 19.2 mark in his four games.

Another letterman, Tom Cokay, will be behind the bat. Prime outfield prospects are Ed Henry, Wayne Buonomo and Bob Fried. Frank LaRusso, a pitching star with the freshmen last season, could aid the Saints considerably if he develops this season in varsity competition.

Explorers Elect Raftery

PHILADELPHIA — Bill Raftery, the former St. Cecilia's (K) High School star who holds the state individual career scoring record, has been elected co-captain of LaSalle College's basketball team for 1962-63.

Raftery, who will share the job with Tony Abbott, was sidelined most of the past season with a back injury. He had led the Explorers in scoring with more than 17 points per game as a sophomore.

He recently underwent surgery to remove a disc from his back. It is expected that he'll be able to play full time again next season.

Four Win Trip To Miami Beach For Tournament

NEWARK — Kathleen Vytell won for Mt. St. Dominic Academy the second leg on a trophy for extemporaneous speaking and St. Joseph's High School (West New York) captured two boys' awards to highlight the North Jersey Catholic Forensic League's grand tournament March 31 at St. Benedict's Prep.

Miss Vytell repeated the victory scored last year by Lorraine Turner for Mt. St. Dominic's. One more victory will give the school permanent possession.

Thomas McCann won in original oratory and Paul Biko-vich was first in oratorical declamation to give St. Joseph's its double honor. David Pione of St. Luke's (Hohokus) was first in extemporaneous speaking for boys.

The four winners will compete in a National Catholic Forensic League tournament which is scheduled for May at Miami Beach.

Scouters Plan 1st Workshop

MORRISTOWN — A workshop for Catholic scouts, the first of its kind here, is planned at 8 p.m. April 13 at Assumption School.

It will deal with three phases of scouting — cubs, scouts and explorers — as well as three religious awards — Parvuli Dei, Ad Altare Dei and Pope Pius XII. No advance registration or fee will be required.

Rev. John Corr, chaplain, and John Dugan, vice chairman of the Catholic Committee on Scouting for the Morris-Sussex Area Council, will direct the session, it has been announced.

Future plans for Catholic scout leaders include a holy hour for cubs April 29 at Assumption, a retreat at Camp Mt. Allamuchy June 1-3 and a day for the Sisters of Schif Scout Reservation May 26.

The Best Costs a Lot

By MSGR. WILLIAM F. FURLONG

An old priest, reminiscing about the day when, as a boy, he left for the seminary, recalled the farewell words of his pastor: "You have made up your mind to be a priest, now, be sure to make up your mind to be the very best kind of priest." It was many years ago when I heard him make that statement, and it made a deep impression. There was something severely logical about it. For there isn't much sense in trying to be anything, unless we try to be the "very best."

BUT, TO BE THE "VERY BEST" KIND of priest possible, that isn't easy. As with everything else, so also with priests, we have those who are "good," those who are "better" and those who are "best." Those whom we generally meet are the "good" and the "better," but the "best" we meet — I think — in books on the lives of saints or in books on the spiritual life. One such priest, the centenary of whose death was observed last Nov. 21, was Pere Lacordaire.

He was one of the greatest preachers, not only in France, but in the whole history of the Church. His biographers tell us that it was not unusual for congregations to become so inspired by him that they would stand up and applaud.

"Crowds were attracted to him year after year at Notre Dame" in Paris. And " . . . week after week at Bordeaux . . . more than five thousand people, all of them for the most part strangers to religion, came to hear him." During Lent of 1845, people came to the Cathedral of Lyons "at five o'clock each morning to hear a sermon which did not begin until eight hours after!"

OUR FIRST REACTION TO ALL this success is that Pere Lacordaire must have had exceptional natural oratorical ability. He did. But so too did others and they did not accomplish what he accomplished. There was something more.

In his life you will read that he devoted very much time to prayer and to severe penances. For example, although exhausted after a long, eloquent sermon, he would return to his room and scourge himself. "God only knows his excesses" in penances, wrote his biographer, Pere Chocarné. On the Good Friday of 1793 he had himself fastened to a cross with ropes and remained suspended on it for three hours!

EXTREME AND IMPRUDENT? PERHAPS. But it proves that it takes more than just natural ability to be the "very best" kind of priest. St. John Vianney, the Cure of Ars, a contemporary of Pere Lacordaire, is a proof of that.

He was extremely prayerful and penitential but had no natural oratorical ability at all. In fact, toward the end of his life his voice no longer carried, and the words that came from his toothless mouth were often incomprehensible. But every day he preached, and every day his little church was filled. People crowded at the doors and even at the open windows to hear him.

YOUNG PEOPLE, WE ARE TOLD, want challenges. It would be a real challenge to become a priest like a St. John Vianney or a Pere Lacordaire — even if we dare not recommend their particular brand of penances.

America Owes Support To All Missionaries

Because the Church is catholic it is universal. Catholics of the U. S. must not only support their own missionaries — 6,000 of a total of 136,000 — but must help support all missions as well.

We must not only give and share what we have, but we must also sacrifice, because Christ sacrificed His life for others.

Think of the infinite merit you can shower on all missionaries by offering up your trials for the greater glory of God! By offering up your pain and suffering! By giving of what you possess materially! By showing your love for His Universal Church in your prayerful remembrances of the 136,000 missionaries who have given their all to bring souls to His Kingdom!

The Society for the Propagation of the Faith will gladly accept your offerings for the missions. These will be sent to the Holy Father who will then dispense them among the missionaries.

Changing Times, New Techniques

Life is good under the sunny skies of Polynesia, where the Marist Missionaries working on Samoa write that "every Samoan is a Christian — be he Catholic, Methodist or Mormon. Sunday will find him in church."

However, even in the idyllic atmosphere, clergy, Brothers and Sisters must work unceasingly and hard. Times change in Polynesia, and as they do, needs change and new goals call for new techniques. These require money, and the missionaries ask for your help.

TB Sanatorium

Literal Life-Saver

The silver jubilee of Mt. Rosary Sanatorium for TB patients was marked not long ago in South Kanara, India. Started by a diocesan priest, Msgr. Elias D'Souza, it was the first such institution in the district.

Rev. J. M. Menzes of Moodibidi writes that before Msgr. D'Souza's arrival the poor and middle class TB patients died helplessly in their homes. "It is to such patients as these," he states, "that our institution has been a boon ever since it started in June, 1937. . . . We do not enjoy any grants from the government, so constant

Bishop Stanton At Little Ferry

Bishop Stanton will make an appeal on behalf of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith on April 8 at St. Margaret's, Little Ferry, Rev. Charles A. Bell, pastor.

Bishop Stanton wishes to express his deep gratitude to Father Bell and to the other pastors of the archdiocese for their cooperation in making these appeals possible.

begging is our day to day task. "A band of voluntary nurses have dedicated their lives to the service of our suffering poor, while a lay institute for medical missionaries is being contemplated and we hope this idea will soon be an accomplished fact.

"We have received from time to time some valuable medicines which are a great help to our patients, and we would be very grateful for more."

Finances, Storm Bring Problems

The refusal of the state government to recognize and aid mission primary schools in Jashpur, Raigarh, India, has resulted in a crushing financial burden for the Catholic people.

However, the Christians display their loyalty to the point that the schools "not only keep alive, but flourish," writes Archbishop Stanislaus Tigga.

"Worthy of praise," he continues, "are in particular our teachers who, though sadly underpaid, yet continue their work devotedly. Then the rainy season brought unusually violent storms and torrential downpours.

"In many places our buildings have only clay walls, and so a certain number of schools and priests' houses have collapsed.

"Our mission is now 10 years old and the number of Catholics has passed 100,000. We need your help in our work."

Catholic Schools Dip in Africa

PRETORIA, So. Africa (RNS) — The number of Catholic primary schools for South African natives decreased from 718 in 1957 to 600 in 1960, a report here disclosed.

Catholic secondary schools fell from 33 to 30 in the same period.

The figures reflected the effects of the government's Bantu Education Act, which barred African schools in "white" areas, limited enrollment to a determined number of pupils, and sought to restrict Catholic schools to Catholic pupils only.

The Education Department of the South African Catholic Bishops' Conference has reported that in the three-year period, the number of Catholic Africans in Catholic primary schools rose from 59,985 to 66,450, but the number of non-Catholic pupils dropped from 40,428 to 2,787.

OODLES OF NOODLES — Nearly 20 tons of noodles a month are produced by this noodle-making center established at St. Peter-in-Chains Mission, Hong Kong, by Catholic Relief Services-NCWC. The center helps feed 150,000 refugees and was financed by U.S. Navy personnel.

Apostleship of Prayer

Sickness Can Be Useful

"For the Sick" — This is the intention for which Pope John asks us to pray during April. The complete intention reads: "That all sick people may find comfort and strength in Christian faith and hope."

SICKNESS is a most natural thing. It can also be a most supernatural thing. It should be, for the Christian.

Supernaturalizing it depends

School to Train Peace Corpsmen

WASHINGTON (RNS)—The Peace Corps announced that the Catholic University of Puerto Rico, Ponce, P.R., will help to train Peace Corps volunteers for service in Ecuador and Peru.

That university will cooperate with two other Puerto Rican institutions in the training program, the University of Puerto Rico at San Juan, and the Inter-American University which is located at Barranquitas, P. R.

Catholic University will train 25 volunteers who will do community work in Peru. They will spend four weeks at a field training camp being established at Rio Abajo, P.R., and then will study for 14 weeks at the university.

in no way upon a natural cure; it depends only on our believing in the usefulness of our suffering.

It is not hard to do this if we can see that the sufferings of Christ were useful.

HE BECAME man in order to suffer and die for us. He accepted His sufferings. He offered them up for our redemption.

If we accept ours and offer them up in union with His for our own salvation and the salvation of all men, they will be useful in the same way that His were.

IN THIS thought there is comfort and strength for the sick.

It is their way of living the Morning Offering.

It is their way of saying "Thy will be done!"

And that is Christian living.

Morning Offering

O Jesus, through the Immaculate Heart of Mary, I offer Thee my prayers, works, joys and sufferings of this day for all the intentions of Thy Sacred Heart, in union with the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass throughout the world, in reparation for my sins, for the intentions of all our associates, for the reunion of Christendom, and in particular for the sick.

IS THE NEAR EAST IN YOUR EASTER?

EASTER IS A HOLYDAY, not just a holiday. It's essentially religious; in fact, it's the greatest Christian feast. . . . The gifts we make at Easter—ought they not be helpful to Religion? Religious gifts are best because they do what Christ did. They feed the hungry in the Holy Land (the Palestine refugees, for instance), clothe the naked (the Bedouins in south Jordan), instruct the ignorant (in Catholic mission schools), provide Mass and the sacraments for the poorest of Christ's poor (in INDIA, IRAN, EGYPT, IRAQ) . . . Could any gifts be more selfless, more Christ-like? . . . Every penny you spend for Easter gifts will do good for souls in the Near East missions, if you use our EASTER GIFT CARDS. The persons who receive the GIFT CARDS you tell us to send (your mother, father, relatives, friends) will know that, thanks to you, they're benefitting spiritually all year long in the prayers and sacrifices of our missionaries. You'll know, too, that your money has not been wasted. Because of you, human misery will not be what it might have been.

OUR EASTER GIFT CARDS

ARE ATTRACTIVE, ARTISTIC, INDIVIDUALIZED. They make it easy for you to shop . . . Simply select a gift from those we've listed below—and send us, with your donation, the name and address of the person in whose name you intend the gift. We do all the rest. We send that person a GIFT CARD in time for Easter, explaining what you have done . . . HERE ARE SOME GIFTS TO SELECT FROM:

☐ FEED A FAMILY FOR A MONTH. The Palestine Refugees (Arabs exiled by the Arab-Israeli War of 1948) live in refugee camps in LEBANON, JORDAN, SYRIA, and GAZA. They need food, clothing, medicine, a place to sleep. . . . TO FEED A REFUGEE FAMILY FOR A MONTH costs $10 . . . As a token of our thanks, we'll send you an Olive Wood Rosary from the Holy Land.

☐ DON'T LET THE BEDOUINS FREEZE. Thousands of BEDOUINS (tent-dwellers in the desert in south JORDAN) nearly froze to death last winter because they had no blankets. We can provide blankets for them at $2 each . . . Mindful of Christ, Who was cold in Bethlehem, will you give one blanket, ten, or more?

☐ HAVE MASSES OFFERED FOR THE LIVING AND DECEASED. Our missionary priests will be pleased to offer promptly the Masses you request. The offering you make is their principal means of support . . . We'll be pleased to send GIFT CARDS, at your request.

☐ DONATE AN ARTICLE FOR A MISSION CHAPEL. For years to come these articles will serve God and souls, in the name of the person you designate: VESTMENTS ($50), A MONSTRANCE ($40), CHALICE ($40), IBORIUM ($40), TABERNACLE ($25), STATIONS OF THE CROSS, ($25), CENSER, ($20), SANCTUARY LAMP, ($15), ALTAR LINENS ($15), SANCTUARY BELL, ($5).

☐ ENROLL YOUR FAMILY, YOUR FRIENDS, IN THIS MISSION AID SOCIETY. The spiritual benefits are incalculable. Families are enrolled as annual ($5) or perpetual ($100) members. Individuals—both living and deceased—may be enrolled, too. The offering for individual membership is $1 (annual) or $20 (perpetual).

☐ HELP US—IN THE NAME OF THE PERSON YOU DESIGNATE — TO BUILD A MISSION CHAPEL, CLINIC OR SCHOOL. We can build a mission school, for instance, for $2,500—less than it costs for one classroom in the U.S.A. Send us your donation, large or small. We'll earmark it for use where it's needed most—and tell you where it's being used.

YOUR LENTEN MITE IS OUR MISSION MIGHT.

Bishop Makes Visit

Easter Island a Lonely Outpost

VILLARICA, Chile (NC) — It's almost 2,500 miles by sea from the mountainous Indian territory of Araucania to the Pacific's lonely Easter Island, but Bishop Charles Hartl, O.F.M. Cap., is responsible for them both.

The German-born Vicar Apostolic of Araucania has just returned from his pastoral visit to Easter Island, whose gigantic statues of long-eared, sharp-nosed people have earned it the title of "Unsolved Mystery of the Pacific."

WHEN HE arrived by warship (since 1888 Easter Island has been a dependency of Chile) practically the entire population of 600 turned out to see him. Only one ship a year touches the island.

The 42-square-mile island constitutes a single parish centered around the church, a chapel, a school and a hospital for victims of Hansen's disease (leprosy). Two Capuchin priests are helped in their work by seven nuns: five in the school and two in the leper hospital.

Bishop Hartl says the island's remoteness (Pitcairn Island, 1,000 miles to the West, is the nearest land) and its sub-tropical damp climate make it a post for missionaries with a very special vocation. Nonetheless Rev. Sebastian Englert, O.F.M. Cap., the parish priest, has been there more than a quarter-century.

Father Sebastian is also a leading authority on the obscure history of Easter Island.

THE BISHOP SAID 96% of the island's population frequent the sacraments and that education has been making considerable progress.

The first modern navigator to sight Easter Island was Alvaro Mendana, a Spaniard, in 1568. The British buccaneer Edward Davis reported it in 1686, and for that reason it is sometimes called Davis Island. It got its present name from the Dutch Admiral Jacob Roggeveen who sighted it on Easter day in 1722.

THE PEOPLE, mainly of Polynesian stock with some admixture of Melanesian, numbered about 3,000 when Europeans first began visiting the island. In 1864 the island was almost depopulated by Peruvians who kidnapped and transported the bulk of the inhabitants to work guano diggings on the Chincha Islands.

Bishop Hartl's territory of Araucania is the home of the Araucanian Indians, whose territory once included almost the whole of Chile.

These warlike people resisted Spanish and Chilean rule until 1870. Their final revolt was ended by treaty in 1881.

Plan 2 Holy Hours For Wedded Couples

NEWARK — The Family Life Apostolate of the Newark Archdiocese this year will sponsor two holy hours instead of one for married couples celebrating their silver or golden anniversaries.

Both holy hours will be held in Sacred Heart Cathedral and will feature the presentation of special mementoes to each couple by Archbishop Boland.

THE FIRST holy hour will be held May 13 for couples from Essex and Union Counties. The second will be held May 27 for those from Hudson and Bergen. Benediction and a sermon will be included in the services.

The scheduling of two services was prompted by the attendance of more than 900 couples at the one holy hour held a year ago.

Eligible couples are being urged to contact their parish priests before April 30 to be certified for attendance and to fill out registration blanks.

Curate Writes Passion Play

NEWARK — An original Passion play, written by Rev. Sylvester Livolsi of St. Francis Xavier Church, will be presented on April 13 and 14 at Essex Catholic High School auditorium.

The play is entitled "The True Story of Jesus: the King of all Kings." It frequently employs a 16-voice choir and tableaux in place of dialogue. Previous versions of it were produced at St. Francis and also in Bayonne and Jersey City, when Father Livolsi was stationed in those cities.

The St. Francis Xavier Holy Name Society, which is sponsoring the production, will provide bus transportation between the church and auditorium on the nights of the performances. Tickets are available at the rectory and at nearby shops and offices.

GAS HEAT must be good...Over 300,000 of our customers use it

Over 300,000 customers of Public Service heat with gas! Over 48,000 of these customers are those who, in only the last five years, converted from other fuels to gas. These are amazing figures — strong evidence that homeowners want the care-free heating comfort that only gas can provide.

Gas heat is clean! There's never any soot or oily grime to dirty up walls, curtains and furniture. It's dependable! Never a delivery problem, as gas is piped underground directly to your furnace. Economical, too, as Public Service gives, without charge, prompt, efficient service on the gas burning parts and controls of gas heating equipment.

Do what many thousands of our customers are doing every year. Enjoy new, carefree comfort and "Join the Swing to Gas Heat."

Courage of Catholic Refugees Moves U.S. General in Vietnam

BINH HUNG, Vietnam (NC) — America's top military officer has praised this village, peopled mainly by Catholic refugees from Red China, as "an example for the entire free world to emulate."

Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, here on an inspection trip, said that against the kind of courage shown by the villagers in protecting themselves from Red guerrillas "communism simply cannot win."

BINH HUNG is located in a region of jungle and swamps at the southern tip of Vietnam. Village leader is Rev. Nguyen Lac Hoa, who brought his people here from China after the communists took over their homeland and inspired the organization of a village defense force known as the Sea Swallows when they were attacked in their new home by the Red guerrillas.

After Gen. Lemnitzer inspected the village, he was checked on the area's waterways and checked on their weapons. Father Hoa told him that America's "warm and generous support, both in material and encouragement, is a large factor in our survival."

THE PEOPLE OF Binh Hung first knew communism in Kwangtung and Kwangsi provinces, China. Just before Christmas, 1950, about 2,000 of them slipped away in boats to North Vietnam, and found that they had sailed right into the Indo-China war, in which Ho Chi Minh's communists had taken over the independence movement.

Some of the refugees obtained work in North Vietnam towns. Others, anxious to get as far away as possible from communism, headed overland for Cambodia.

Throughout their wanderings they grouped themselves around Father Hoa, a Chinese priest who had escaped from a communist prison in Kwangtung. Many of them had been his parishioners in China.

FATHER HOA stayed with his refugees in Cambodia. After some years he and they decided that they should seek their permanent home and livelihood elsewhere. He traveled in search of a haven and found it when President Ngo Dinh Diem of Vietnam offered them land in a region that had been depopulated by the war.

It took months to get the exit permits for all the families to leave Cambodia and to make the journey to Binh Hung. The last group arrived on March 17, 1959.

THEY BUILT HUTS of matting on which they have now put tin roofs. They built a wooden church, dedicated to St. John the Baptist, and eight chapels in the surrounding district of Hai Yen. They went to work on the abandoned rice land, each family receiving three hectares (about seven and a half acres). Msgr. Joseph J. Harnett and Rev. Paul J. Duchesne, M.M., of Catholic Relief Services — N.C.W.C. gave them aid in getting started.

The settlements have grown from about 60 Chinese families to 300, of whom about a third are non-Christians.

The refugees were in Binh Hung for some months and had made solid progress in their pioneering when the communist guerrillas attacked. The people decided that they were not going to be pushed farther; there was nowhere else for them to go in East Asia.

AS MANY villages used to do in North Vietnam, Binh Hung formed its own local defense force. The communists attacked in greater strength. They burned seven of the eight chapels. The Binh Hung people strengthened their defense.

They enlisted defenders from outside. By late 1961 the force had increased to about 1,100 men, including Vietnamese and Nungs (a tribe from North Vietnam that is strongly anti-communist) as well as Chinese. About one-third of the Binh Hung soldiers are Catholics.

Some of Father Hoa's fellow priests have said they would prefer to see him less closely connected with the actual defense force. He has answered: "If you were in my position, with those people to take care of, you'd do the same, and perhaps more."

Services Scheduled For Bishop Gilmore

HELENA, Mont. (NC) — Funeral rites for Bishop Joseph M. Gilmore of Helena, 69, are tentatively scheduled for April 11 in St. Helena's Cathedral here.

Bishop Gilmore died April 2 in San Francisco where he was attending functions honoring Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken in connection with his enthronement as Archbishop of San Francisco. Bishop Gilmore was stricken with a heart attack at dinner.

THE BISHOP was born in New York City March 22, 1893. He attended St. Joseph's College, Dubuque, Iowa, and the Urban College in Rome, where he was ordained in 1915.

He returned to the U.S. serving on the faculty of Carroll College in Helena and later as chancellor of the diocese until Feb. 19, 1936, when he was consecrated Bishop of Helena.

He has been serving as a member of the administrative board of the NCWC and as chairman of the NCWC's Immigration Department.

Dead Bishop Known Here

PASSAIC — Last week's report that Bishop Josef Carsky, apostolic administrator of the Kosice Diocese, Slovakia, had died there at 75 recalled the Bishop's close ties with Slovaks here.

He visited Passaic in 1926, according to John C. Sciranka of the Slovak Catholic Sokol. In July of that year he addressed some 30,000 New York and New Jersey Slovaks at special ceremonies on the Fordham University campus.

The Bishop, who was traveling with three other Slovak prelates, was made an honorary member of the Slovak Catholic Sokol which has headquarters here. Three years later when Slovak gymnasts from America visited Slovakia, the Bishop was their host.

3rd Order to Meet

Church Damaged by Fire

PASSAIC — Plans are moving ahead immediately to repair the damage done to St. Anthony's Church by a fire on April 2 which destroyed the crucifixion chapel. There will be no interruption in church services.

Rev. Paschal Caccavale, O.F.M. Cap., pastor, said that estimates of the repair cost would be made this week by various contractors and that work on the church would begin as soon as possible. Though chiefly confined to the chapel alcove just inside the main entrance, the fire also caused some damage to the walls and ceiling.

The fire was caused by a votive candle in the chapel which cracked its container and fell on a wooden support of the crucifix. It was discovered by an elderly parishioner who notified the priests.

This is the second fire within 10 years at St. Anthony's. In 1953 a blaze caused an estimated $15,000 damages.

A third series will start May 22. Sister Anne Matthew is in charge of registration.

Colonial Model Most Popular

A Kaylor Release
HARRINGTON PARK (PFS) — An idea more than 200 years old, the true center hall providing a path and buffer zone from the front to the back of the house, has made the colonial Cambridge the most popular model at the 113-house Longview community on Lafayette Road off Schraalenburgh Road in Harrington Park, according to Beir-Higgins Realty Associates of Saddle River, sales consultants.

The tract, developed as another Harmer Project by Harold Kramer and Vincent Cucchiara, has four model homes and 23 plots remaining to be sold. Offered at the tract are Colonial two-story homes with four or five bedrooms, ranch and split-levels priced from $30,690. Models include the seven-room Berkeley ranch with two baths, the eight-room Cambridge Colonial two-story with four bedrooms, and also available with five bedrooms, and the Lexington Colonial two-story. The latter is available for immediate delivery.

Retreat Meeting
PORTLAND, Ore. (NC) — U.S. Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota will be the principal speaker at a convention of the National Catholic Laymen's Retreat Conference here July 26 — 29.

Sunrise Beach Expanding

A Town Release
FORKED RIVER (PFS) — Sunrise Beach on Route 9 here is continuing its expansion with the opening today of its third lagoon section. The community combines vacation and year-round living in a resort setting on Barnegat Bay. A total of 122 75 ft. x 90 ft. building sites on deep water lagoons is being offered. Seven pre-opening sales have already been made in this section.

The sponsors of the community are building homes for summer, year-round and retirement living. They are also selling 75 ft. wide woodland and waterfront-lagoon lots for future dwellings. The homes have two and three bedrooms and natural gas heating. Shell homes are priced from $5,295; 75 foot woodland lots with utilities are priced from $1,200 and lagoon lots are from $3,100. Year-round homes at the site range in price from $8,710 to $15,000.

The community is also increasing the variety of homes now available. Two new ranch designs will be featured. Home planning at the tract is oriented to two basic ideas: (1) the enjoyment of the outdoors by the many families attracted by the sea and sports opportunities of the area; (2) interior design aimed at providing a dwelling that can be utilized as a round-the-year home.

Centennial Lecture

Tensions Seen Aid To Christian Unity

SOUTH ORANGE — An optimistic view of the future of the ecumenical movement, combined with a pessimistic view of some present conditions, was offered by Rev. Cyril Vollert, S.J., in his Immaculate Conception Seminary Centennial Lecture on April 3 at Seton Hall University.

"THE STATE OF disunion among Christians is a dreadful situation," Father Vollert told his audience, which included Archbishop Boland. "We recommend Christianity by quoting Our Lord's words: 'By this shall all men know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another.' But a moment later we see that all these disciples are deeply split by discord."

YET THESE VERY difficulties are now helping to clear the air, he said. "Among Protestants and Orthodox, the World Council of Churches has deepened and concentrated the longing for unity experienced by all Christians of good will."

"To combat atheistic materialism, Christians must present a united front. Protestants as well as Catholics are keenly conscious of the evils of separation, and are yearning for association that will foster progress toward union.

"EVEN opposition against the Papacy... shows signs of abating, as is shown by... sympathy... at the death of Pius XII and... friendly interest at the election of John XXIII."

"Even a slight acquaintance with the history of the Church a century ago is enough to convince us that the atmosphere has changed radically since the time of Pius IX and the First Vatican Council. 'There is no question in the minds of any, least of all in Catholic circles, of compromising the faith, of hiding disagreements under the mantle of tolerance, of glossing over the truth with misapplied charity. The truth shall make you free,' said Christ; and he added, 'I am the Truth.' We cannot and we will not be false to the truth that is Christ."

AS TO WHAT individual Christians can do to foster the ecumenical spirit, Father Vollert said, "The first thing to do is pray. Action toward union must flow from prayer... Let us pray that we may be delivered from the evil of disunion, that ignorance and bias on all sides may melt away, that misunderstandings may be removed, that hostility may give way to friendship, that we may all succeed in forgiving one another."

"... A bond of union exists between Catholics and our separated brethren... This bond of unity is rooted in the Sacrament of Baptism and is strengthened by faith in one Lord of us all and by love for Him."

"... An encouraging advance has been made among divided Protestants who were able to initiate a beginning toward union at the World Council of Churches... Can we not see here the activity of the Holy Spirit? Who can prophesy that this trend toward unification will come to nothing, who can tell where it will stop?"

Serra Work Praised By Archbishop

EAST ORANGE — Speaking at the annual Serra Club reception in his honor, Archbishop Boland stressed the importance of Serra's work for vocations.

At the dinner, the Archbishop introduced Rev. Daniel J. Collins, pastor of St. Peter the Apostle, River Edge, as chaplain of the newly organized Serra Club of East Bergen. This is the fifth Serra Club in the Newark Archdiocese.

THE MONTCLAIR Serra Club was host for the dinner, at which Dr. John R. Gannon, its president, presented the Archbishop with a purse on behalf of all the Serra Clubs.

"God must bless the work of Serra," the Archbishop said, because "there is a shortage of recognized vocations."

The Archbishop also touched on school needs and urged Serrans to support the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Men.

"Today, not more than 60% of our children are in parochial schools," he said. "Our aim is a chair for every child in each parish school."

He called the ACCM "the arm of the hierarchy" and told Serrans that federation with the council would not entail loss of identity.

Federation, Archbishop Boland said, enables men to "work together in a common cause with a unity of purpose so that the work of Christ can continue."

Renaissance Society Registration Opens

SOUTH ORANGE — Registrations are now being accepted at Seton Hall University for the spring symposium of the Catholic Renaissance Society.

Rev. William Noe Field is general chairman for the program, April 23-24.

FIVE SESSIONS have been scheduled, including three panel discussions, the opening at which Bishop John J. Wright of Pittsburgh will give the keynote address, and the symposium banquet at which Archbishop Boland will preside and Paul Horgan will speak.

General theme of the meeting is "Science and the Literary Imagination."

Father Field said the charge-

es for participating in all sessions except the banquet will be $7 with a $4 rate for students. Single day registration will be $4 with a $2 fee for students. Registration fee for the banquet is $6.50.

He also revealed that Sisters wishing to attend will be housed at the university if they desire. Arrangements are being made to receive them as early as April 22. Accommodations for other delegates will be made at nearby hotels and motels.

Public Invited To Science Fair

NEWARK — Five half-tuition Catholic college scholarships await the winners at the second annual science fair for secondary schools of the Newark Archdiocese April 7-8 at Seton Hall University, South Orange.

Judging will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. for the five fields — biology, chemistry, mathematics, physics and general science. Viewing will be from 3 to 6 p.m. that day and from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. the following day. The public is invited.

Awards will be announced at 5 p.m. April 8.

Haworth Citizens Object to School

HAWORTH — Opposition was voiced at a March 27 meeting of the Board of Adjustment of this Bergen County borough to the plans of Holy Angels Academy to relocate its school on an 80-acre tract near the White Beeches Country Club.

HOLY ANGELS recently sold its present site at Fort Lee and purchased the land here. The increasing encroachments of highways in the Fort Lee area forced the transfer of the school to a new site. Holy Angels has lost land to the George Washington Bridge and its approaches for the past 30 years.

At the meeting of the Board of Adjustment, about 300 citizens were present and several opposed the school vocally, with support from a majority of the audience, on a variety of grounds, including traffic problems and drainage conditions.

THE LAND ON which the school is to be built has lain idle since plans were dropped to build a golf course there several years ago. It is in the northwest corner of the Borough close to the Oradell Road.

Paterson Group To Attend Talks

WASHINGTON (NC) — The second annual Conference on Opportunities at Home and Abroad for Catholic Men and Women will be held at the Catholic University of America here April 8.

Specialists will survey opportunities for service in both Catholic and secular organizations during the day-long conference.

Attending the conference will be representatives of such groups as the Association for International Development, Paterson; the Grail Institute for Overseas Service, the International Catholic Auxiliaries, the Women Volunteers Association, the Young Christian Workers, the Papal Volunteers for Latin America, the Peace Corps, the United Nations and other organizations. Edward Kirchner, a past president of Pax Romana, international movement of Catholic students and intellectuals, will give the keynote address.

William V. Breslin, representing the academy at the meeting, said that he had no doubt that the necessary variance would be granted by the board. Chairman John Larsen, on the other hand, said that his group was against the variance.

IF THE BOARD of Adjustment grants the variance, it will then be placed before the mayor and council. If it turns down the variance, the court appeal would be to the courts.

Robert H. Mtrus of Bridgeport, Conn., architect for the school, said that the questions concerning traffic and sanitation would be answered when construction plans were made public. Robert Gerber of the Hackensack Water Company said that his organization had no objection to the school being built if all sanitary regulations were observed.

2nd Smut Case

Hudson News Trial Ends

NEWARK — Hudson County News Co. of North Bergen, which, with an affiliate, was fined $16,000 on obscenity charges two weeks ago in Hudson County, is awaiting a verdict in a similar trial here.

Essex County Judge Robert A. Matthews reserved decision in the case during which the company was accused of selling and distributing obscene magazines.

Prosecution witnesses included Dr. Gerald Gelber, psychologist at the Essex County Youth House, and two storekeepers, Dr. Gelber said that in his opinion some of the magazines distributed by the company appeal to prurient interests.

One storekeeper testified that he returned publications which he considered obscene. The other testified that he had asked the firm not to send certain publications because of obscenity but the company continued to send them.

Polish Reds Seize

Home for Children

BERLIN (NC) — Poland's communist regime has seized a children's home and kindergarten run by Franciscan nuns at Chojnice, Pomerania, and arrested the Sister superior, it was learned here.

A government commission which investigated the institution after the seizure charged the Sisters with maladministration of funds given by the government for the maintenance of the children. It also charged that children had been admitted to the kindergarten without the approval of the education commission.
